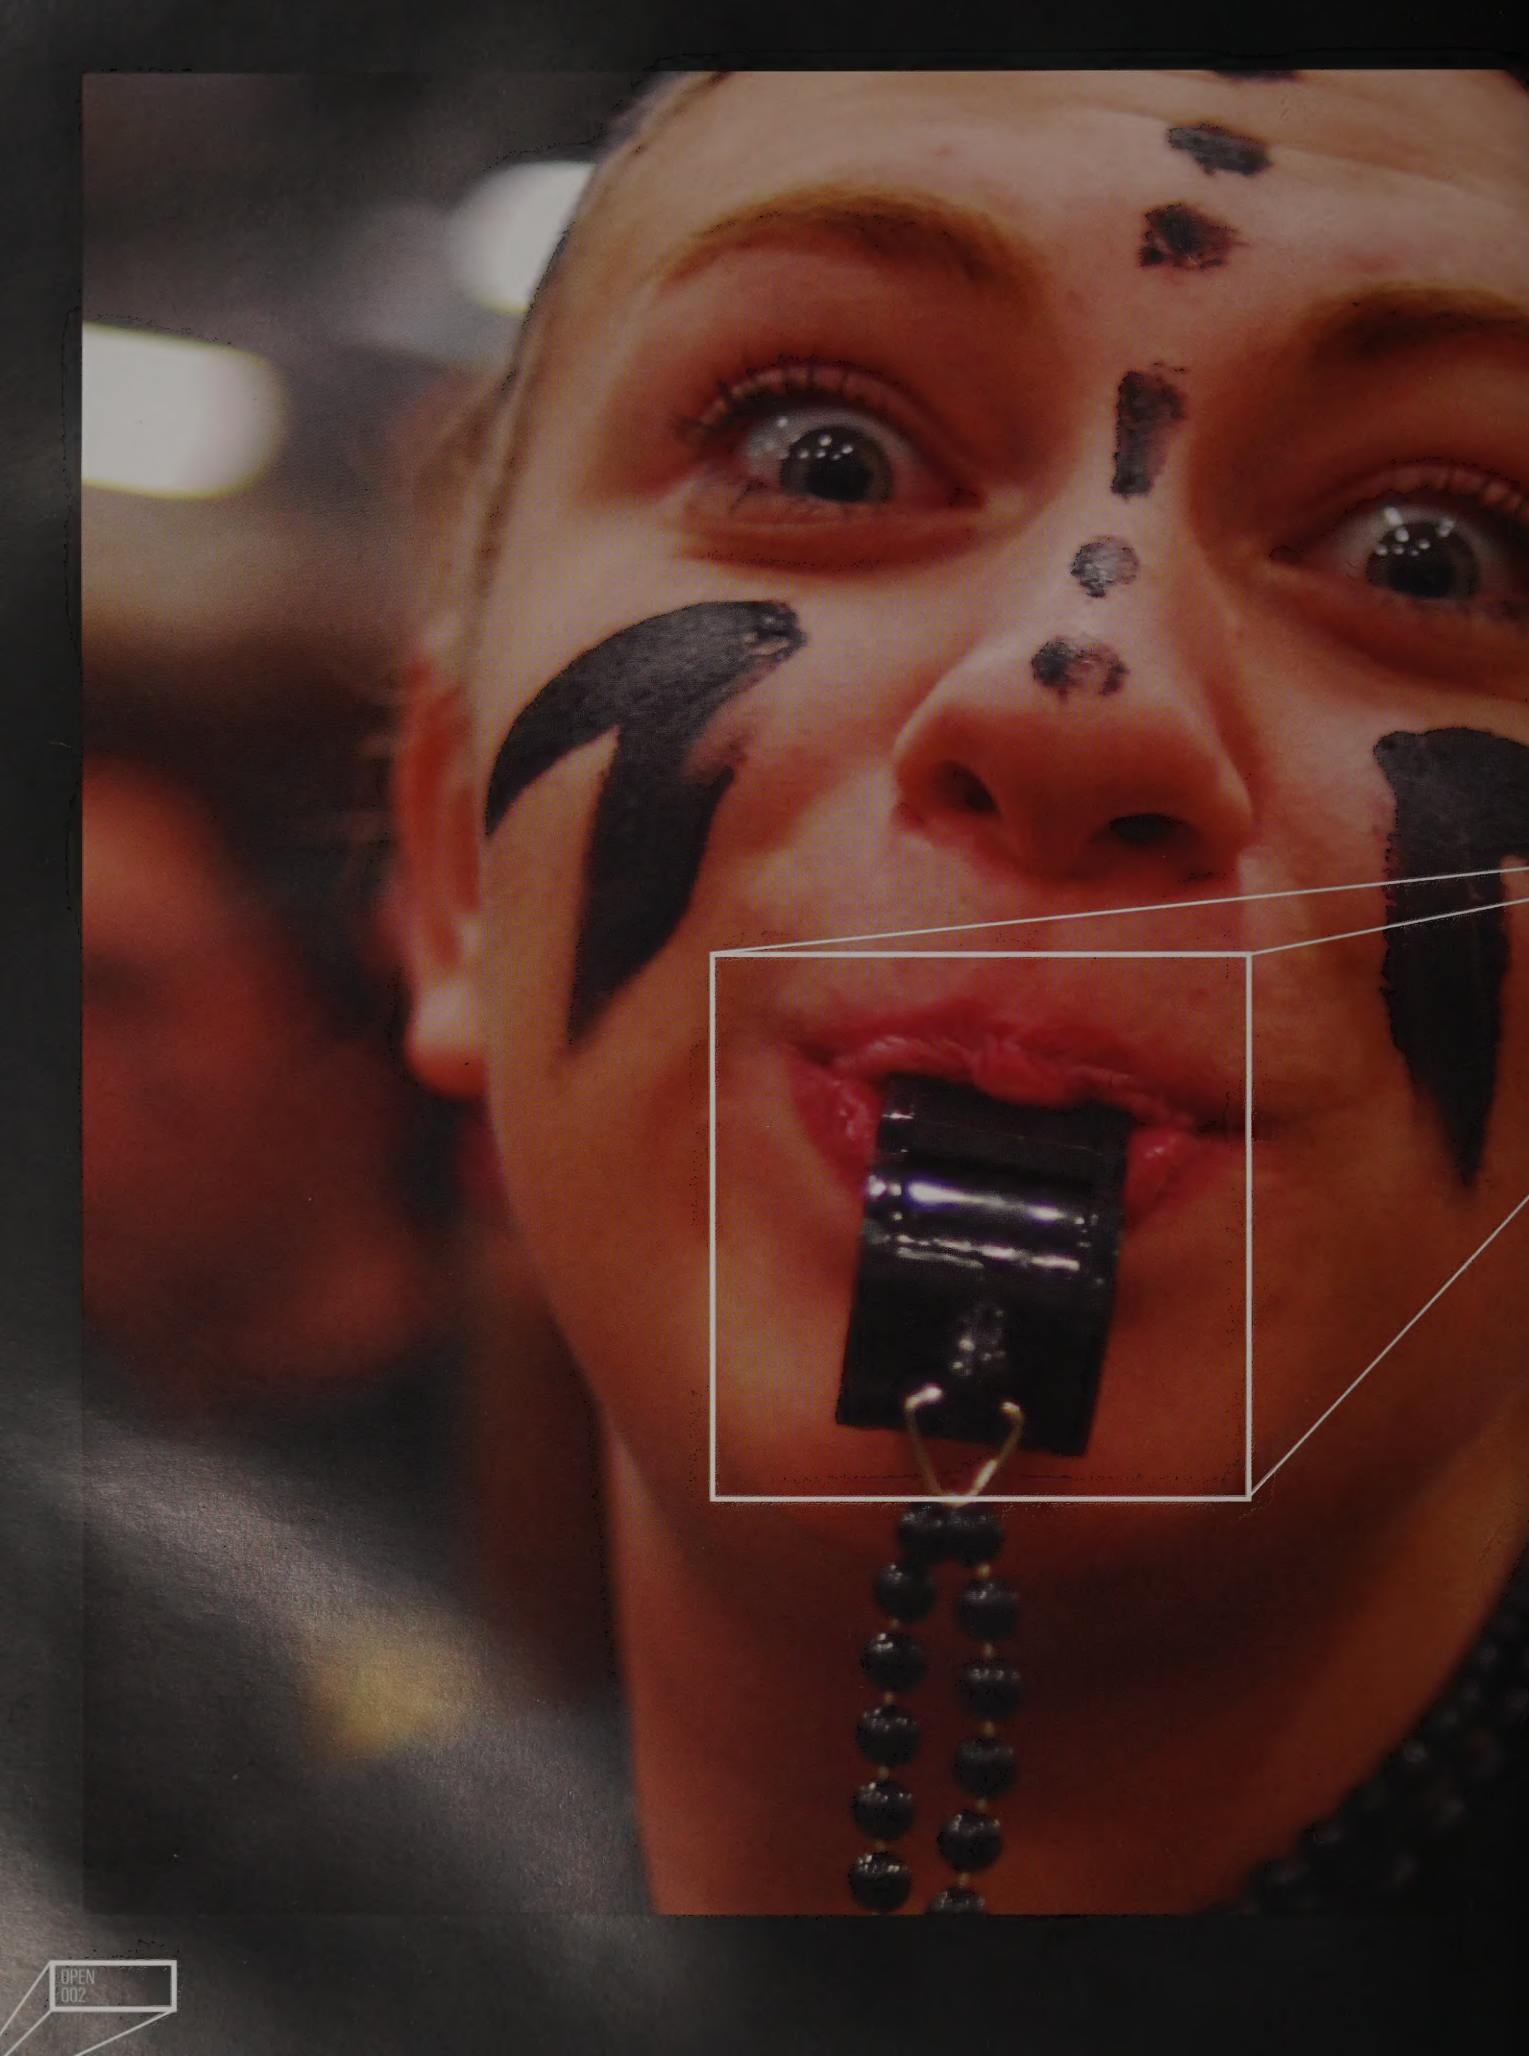
TANTASQUA REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL // 319 BROOKFIELD ROAD // FISKDALE, MA 01518 // 508.347.9301 // www.tantasqua.org

If you were there,

then you remember how it was: a week of activities and school spirit, crazy costumes, a homecoming game and dance, a bonfire, the company of friends. It was just beginning to feel like autumn, and the school year seemed as though it would never end. You were there, with everyone else, in this special place we call Tantasqua. Everything was about to begin, and you were part of it.



OPEN

When you had to be there, you showed up ready to make some noise. You were the one cheering at the spirit assembly, blowing into a saxophone at a concert, whooping with friends as you walked down the hall. You weren't the quiet one. You weren't timid. You got in front of the camera. You were noticed. You were there.

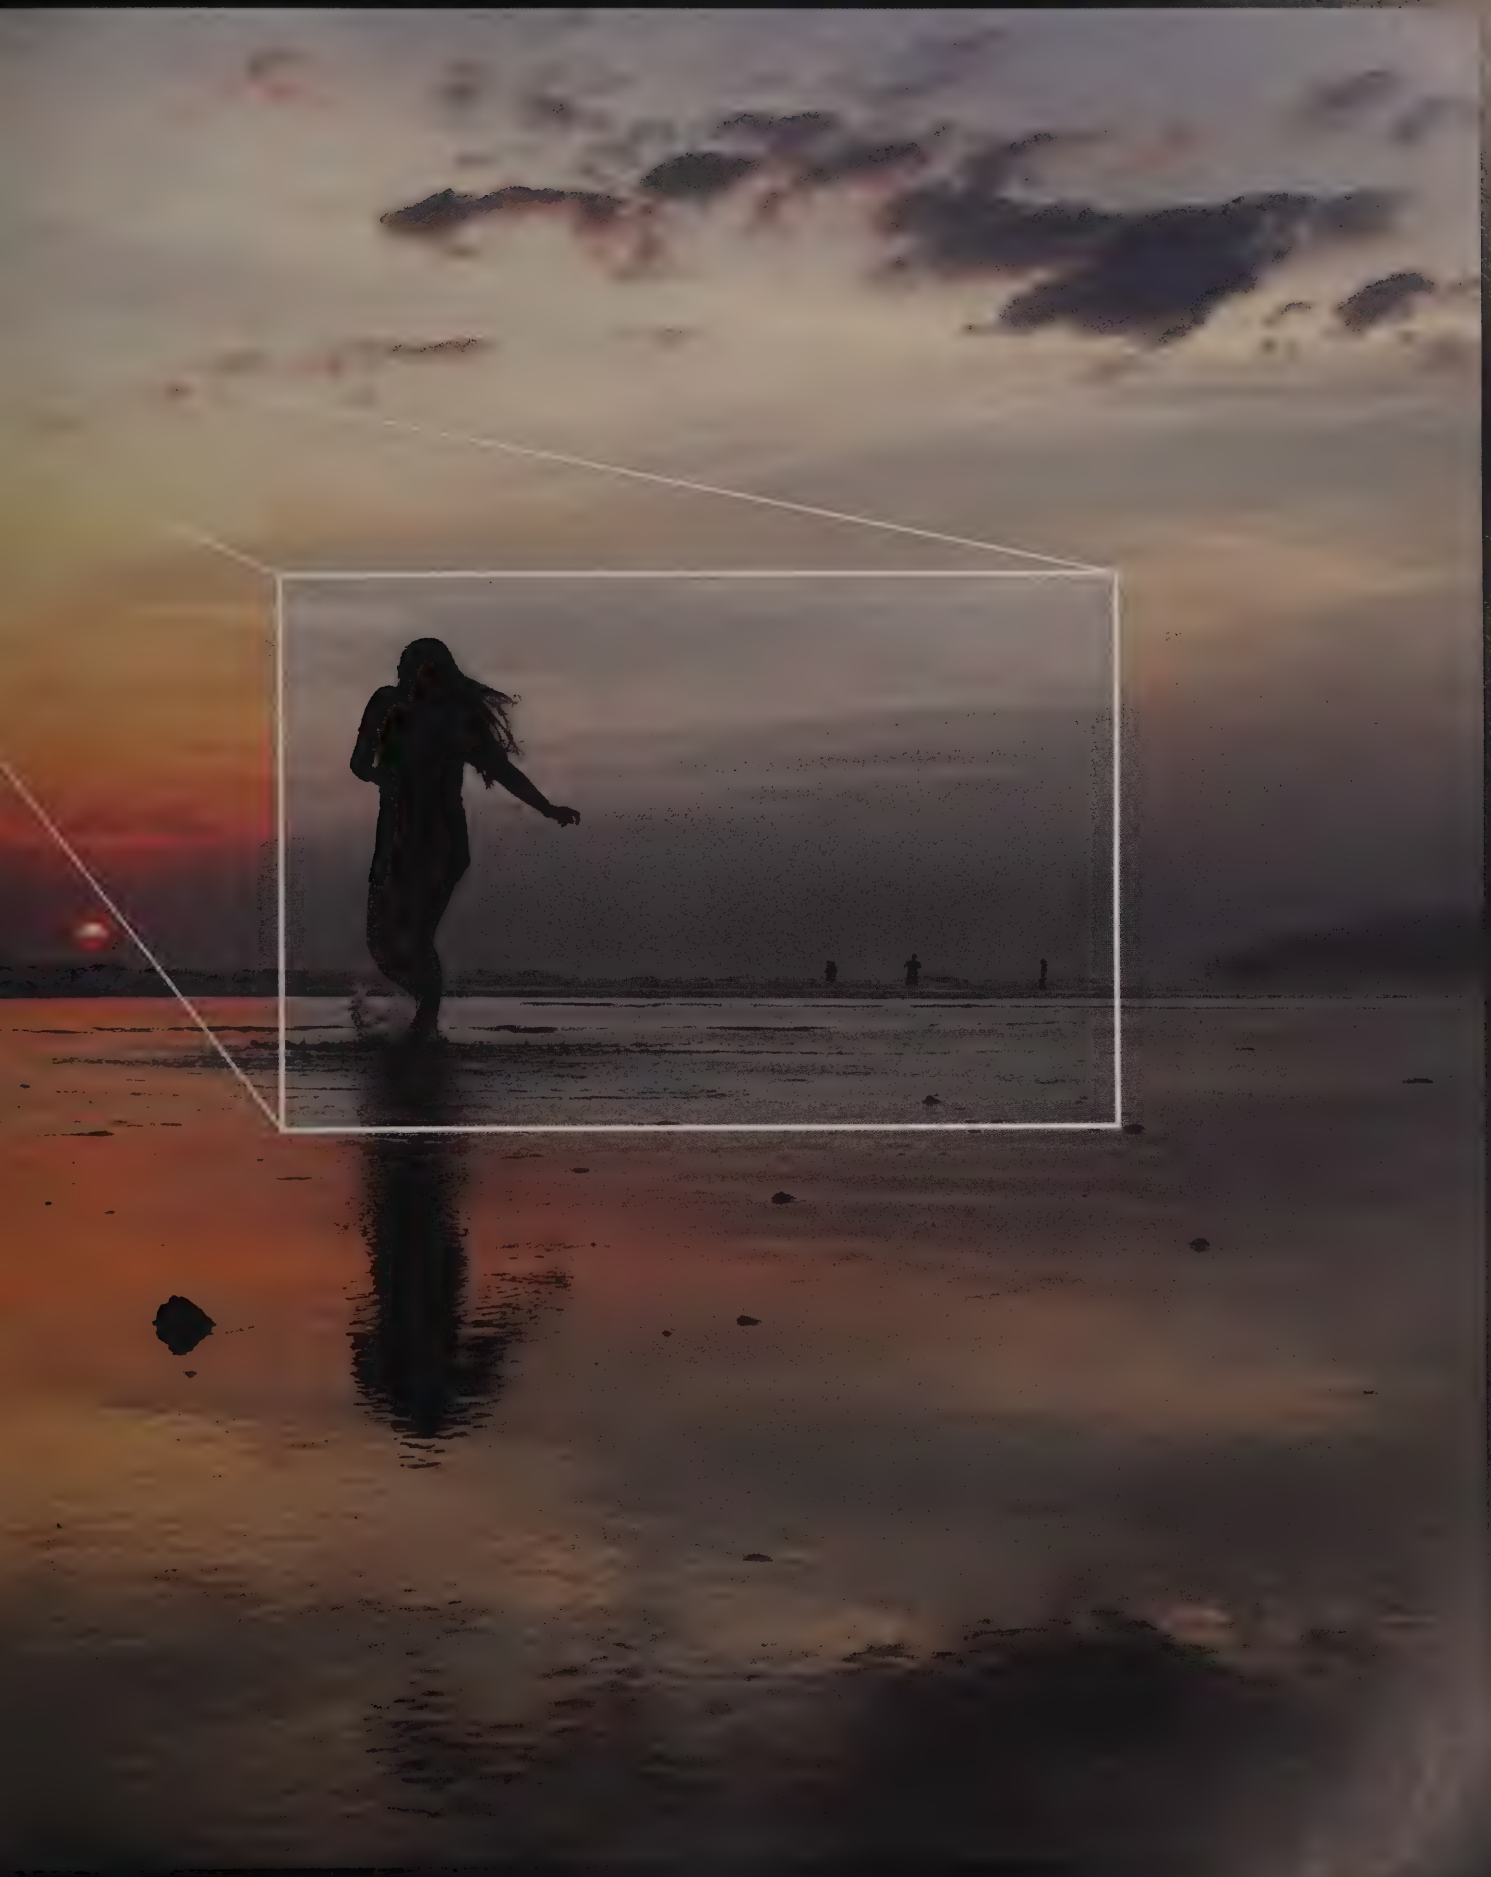
Even when away, on a field trip to Costa Rica or South Dakota, or off with teammates competing for the reputation of the school, you were there. Because Tantasqua wasn't just a building where classes were held. It was a way of being together. A way of growing up. Some people, outsiders, might think they understand. But they don't. You had to be there.

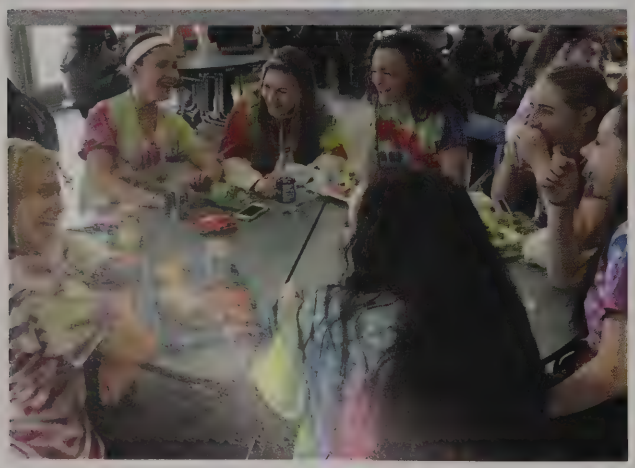


1. Griffin Moore ties a bandana behind his head as he heads out on a student council field trip. 2. Joshua Belanger and Connor Ricci arrive early for graduation rehearsal. 3. Mckensie Avanesian and Perrin Terry take a moment for a quick selfie. 4. Juliet Lunden, Gillian Peterson, Sarah Pratt, Miranda Snyde[illegible] Swift make u[illegible] of Rosie the [illegible]

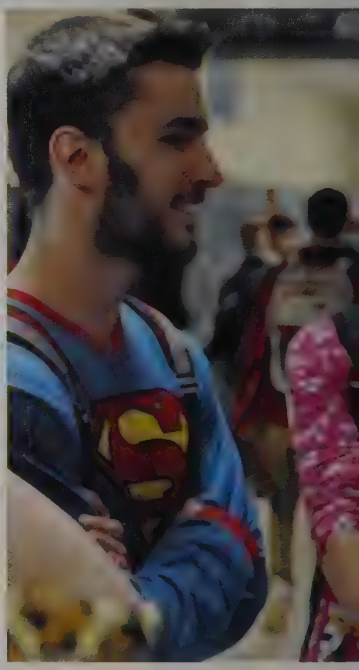
STUDENT LIFE

Monochocrome Maddness Senior students Margaret Geyer, Rebecca Cooper and Catherine Chasse show of their school spirit by dressing in monochrome. "I think it's important to spread school spirit within the Tantasqua community. School spirit generates a sense of togetherness and belonging, so why not dress up like an orange highlighter for the day?" said Rebecca.

Terrific Tie-dye "When I was at the mall shopping one day, I said, 'Wow, look at that nice hat, I should buy that for tie-dye day!'" said senior Azlynn Prunier.



Lunchtime Laughs Ariana Spencer, Michaela Tanacea, Cierra Pellot, Jordan Krans, Ariel Balderelli, Laurel Seery and Kaylee Robidoux gather round their lunch table and laugh on tie-dye day. Their bright spirits really embodied the theme of tie-dye day.

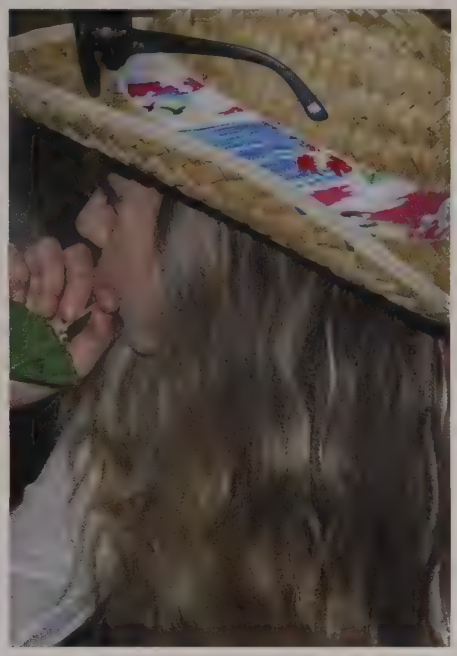


Pajama Paradise Samantha Lambert and Gabriel Roberts laugh at each other's onsies on pajama day. Their pajamas contributed to the hundreds worn by students during the return of the ever popular pajama day during one of our spirit weeks. It was one comfy day for these two, that's for sure!

Green Galore! Shane Fortier and Noah Scott don their green and gold for Warrior pride day. "I really love Warrior pride day," Scott said. "It gives me the chance to wear all my Tantasqua gear with all my friends. We try to see which one of us can wear the most."

Bikini Bloopers Alicia DeSousa poses in her bikini clad outfit on Tropical Tuesday. "I like thinking outside of the box for spirit days; it makes them more interesting to me" said DeSousa. "We're in high school once, might as well have fun with it!"

Hawaiian Hanging' Senior Madeline LaFlamme casually chews on an umbrella while looking relaxed on Tropical Tuesday. "I went out to the Halloween store at 9:00pm the night before just to buy clothes for spirit week," said LaFlamme.



SHOW US YOUR SPIRIT

School spirit is at an all time high during our spirit weeks. What student doesn't love the opportunity to dye their hair pink for Pink Day, get decked out in all their Warrior gear, or wear pajamas to school? Spirit weeks allow for a change from the usual routine and gives students a chance to express themselves.

This year the ever popular Pajama Day was brought back, and for one day the halls were filled with sleepy students decked in their warmest, fluffiest pajamas. From Superman onesies to cozy bathrobes, students wore their craziest pajamas during Spirit Week.

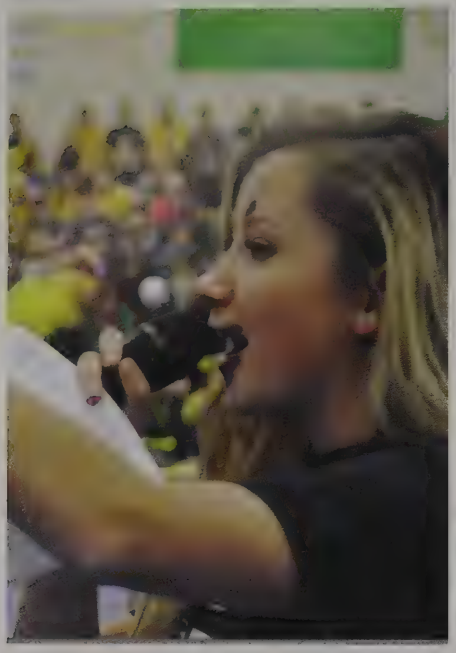
Leading up to the Warrior Rumble was Warrior Pride Day, one of the most participated in spirit days. Nearly every student donned some green and gold and visibly expressed their school spirit. Green and gold bandannas, headbands, socks, shirts, and beads were everywhere!

While each class competed to see who had the most spirit, the senior class dominated every single day, clearly demonstrating that they had experienced more school spirit days than any other class, and they alone had the most school spirit of all.

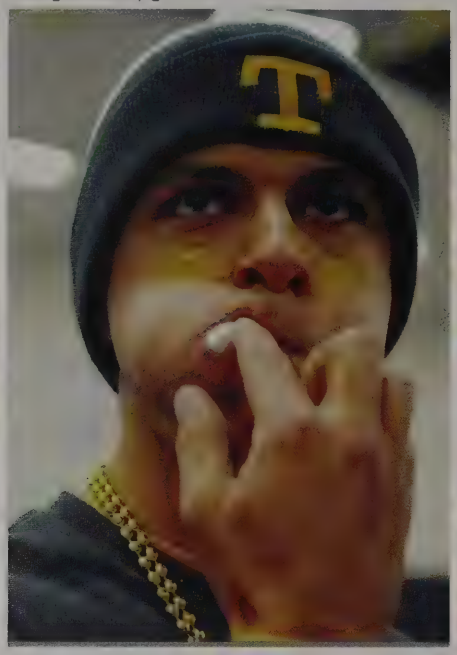
> "ITS LIKE A CHALLENGE TO SEE HOW MANY SPIRIT DAYS I CAN DRESS UP FOR!

Pajama Pandemonium Juniors Spencer Curbelo and Tyler Main talk in the hallway in their colorful onesies. "I thought it would be fun to wear pajamas to school, but it felt extremely weird to wear them all day long. My friends all decided to wear them so I decided to join in," said Main.

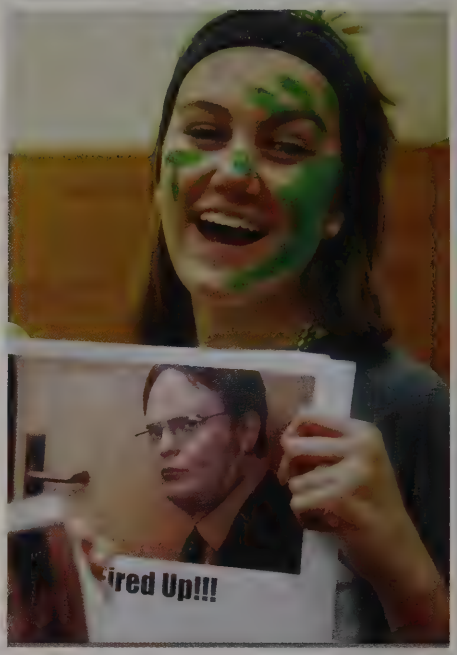
Senior emcee Lindsay Gorey attempts to calm the wild crowd at the warrior rumble. "It was more of a mumble than a rumble, but I tried my best to tame the crowd," she said.



Sophomore Noah Berthiaume looks focused as he somehow manages to stuff yet another marshmallow into his mouth and say the words, "Chubby Bunny!" through his sticky grin.



Junior Kate Beland shows her school spirit by getting "fired up" with Dwight Shrute of the Office. "I love Dwight! He's the perfect person to get hype with," exclaimed Kate.



GET FIRED UP
FOR THE WARRIOR RUMBLE!

"ALL OF THE SENIOR HYPE EARNED OUR CLASS THE WIN!

The pep rally, otherwise known at Tantasqua as the Warrior Rumble, is an important event because it occurs only once a year, bringing the entire school together for an afternoon of friendly competition and spirit-building.

Following the tradition of the school, seniors are dismissed to the Field House first. Dressed in black, they race down and occupy their own unique bleacher. Then the juniors are called to the Field House, taking their place near the seniors. Sophomores and freshmen, clad in bright green and gold, finally join the older students.

The hour-long event features performances by the marching band and chorus, an exhibition by the cheerleaders, and, of course, lots of games where the different classes compete each other. Seniors are the favored class, but the underclassmen put up a good fight for victory.

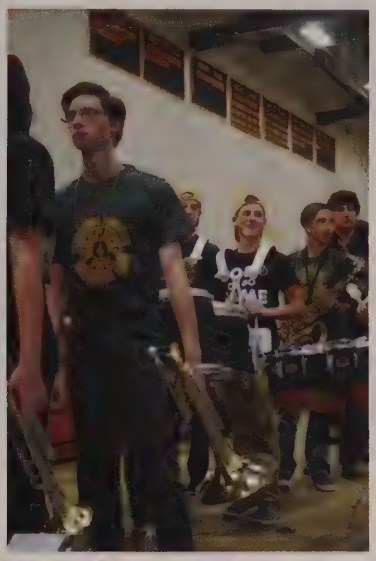
Even the teachers get in on the action, trying to catch marshmallows without using their hands and cheering on their students.

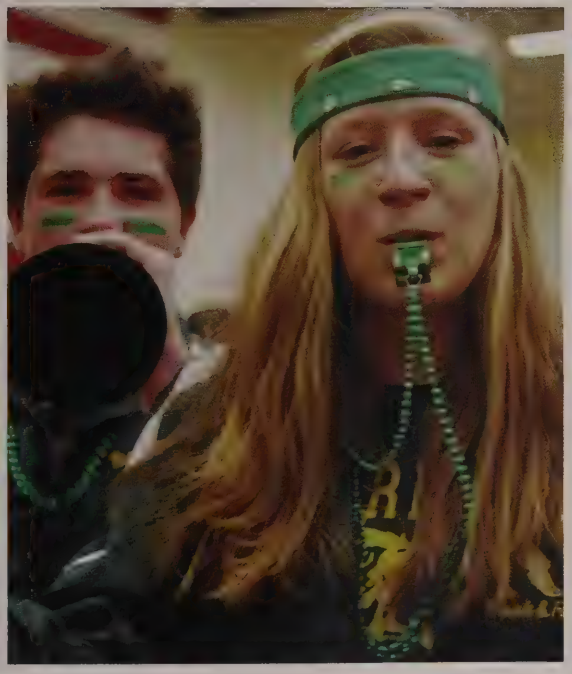
With all the academic and technical work of the school year, it's important to let the warriors rumble their way to the Field House and cheer each other on!

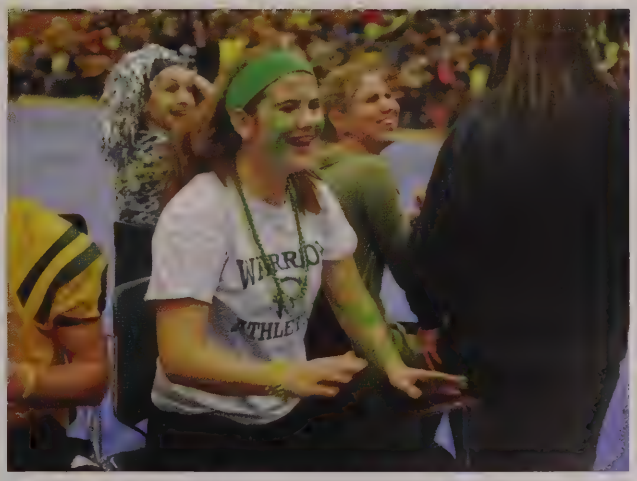
Sophomores students Emily Ellithorpe and Lauren Lafond can't help but giggle while watching their class compete in the Warrior Rumble games. "The Warrior Rumble was so fun, and it was great to watch my class compete in games," said Lauren through a grin.

Power trio Catherine Chasse, Sharlette Laporte, and Lauren Mcgrath show their senior pride at the Warrior Rumble. "Seniors dominated!" said Lauren fiercely.

Ryan Campbell, a junior, and the rest of the marching band prepare for their grand entrance, looking focused and determined.





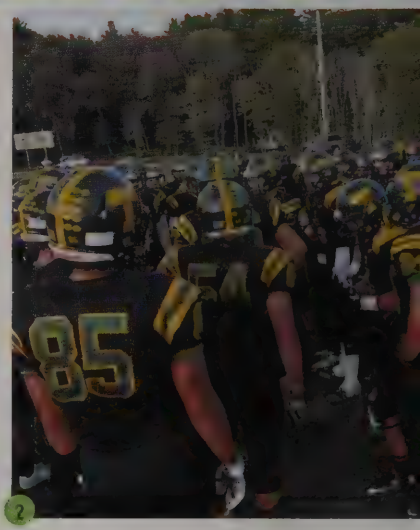


Sophomore Claire Matlak grins as she has just made it into another round of musical chairs. "I had to win for my class, and represent the sophomores!" said Claire.

Junior power couple Dylan Arsenault and Anna DiGregorio show their spirit by bleeding their class color green. The couple agreed, "Days like today make school fun!"

THE WARRIORS SPARK FIRE

Homecoming caps off the legendary Spirit Week, and many people thought the Warriors were the underdog entering Friday's match against rival Doherty. However, after four hard-fought quarters and a miraculous end zone interception in the closing seconds of the game by sophomore Cody Robert, the Warriors proved many wrong as they upset Doherty 21-14. Entering Friday night, the Warriors had managed to win their three previous games and were hoping to keep the streak alive against Doherty. For the first time in a little over three years, the Warriors won on homecoming!



Homecoming Football. 1. Robert Moseley and Sebastian O'Leary enjoy pizza at the pregame tailgate with the rest of the freshman football team. 2. The team gathers around the four senior captains to go over the gameplan one last time before Doherty arrives. 3. Bryce Iller cheers on the Warriors from the bleachers as he awaits his turn to play on homecoming weekend in a couple short years.

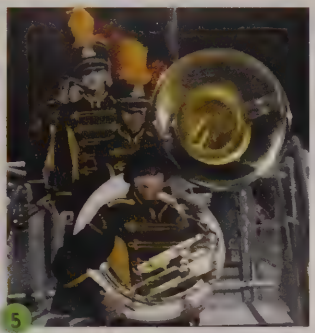
PINK TOUGH

> IT WAS REALLY COLD OUTSIDE, BUT THE GAME TOOK MY MIND OFF THE BAD WEATHER.

KESHA

Every year at the homecoming football game, a few students brave the frigid fall temperatures to paint up for the game. This year was no exception to that tradition. Senior students Keshav Patel, Nikolas Pechie, Samuel Matton, Madeline LaFlamme, Brandon Sears, Cullen McCarthy, Kelly Austin, and Emma Boland remained lined up against the end zone for the entirety of the game to watch the team seal the victory within the final seconds of regulation time.

THINK PINK! 1. Team Senior Sackers gather together for a team photo prior to the first game. 2 Team Pretty and Tough huddle up to determine a game plan for their upcoming game. 3. A team which includes members of the music program line up for a group picture. 4. Members of the Senior Sackers team lock hands victoriously in the air as they celebrate their win in the championship game. "It felt great to win, but even better to be contributing toward a good cause!" said senior Kelly Austin.



Gametime Activities 4. Senior Griffin Moore restocks the Snack Shack to prepare for the rush of spectators during halftime.
5. Alexander Watson makes his way out onto the field to perform during halftime.

Girls, they [illegible]

These girls all dance like nobody is watching with one another during the dances. They really highlight that you don't need a date to have a good time, all you need are your girlfriends! They dance together whether the songs are fast or slow. They also belt out the lyrics to top hit songs and laugh with one another. They all get ready together and take pictures with one another before going to the dances. "Homecoming is always a good time, you get to dress up with your girls and slay," said senior Amanda Smick.

ONE LAST DANCE

Laughing the night away. Seniors Sharlotte LaPorte, Kelly Austin, and Allison Beaudoin, along with junior Abby LaFountain share a laugh during the Winter Formal.

"THE BEST PART IS HAVING DANCE PARTIES WITH YOUR FRIENDS AND GETTING READY FOR PICTURES!" LINDSAY GOR[illegible]

Members of Student Council work hard every year to put on two dances for the students to attend and have a fun night. This year, the homecoming theme was a Hollywood Red Carpet theme, and the Winter Formal was Fire & Ice. Both dances had a really great turnout from both the faculty and peers. "We all work really hard to make them look nice and please everyone with good themes! I love going to the dances, it's a great excuse to dress up and you really don't even need a date if you go with your best friends," said senior Jessica Bodish. Student Council is already anxious about next year and thinking about themes. The last dance of the year was the Winter Formal.

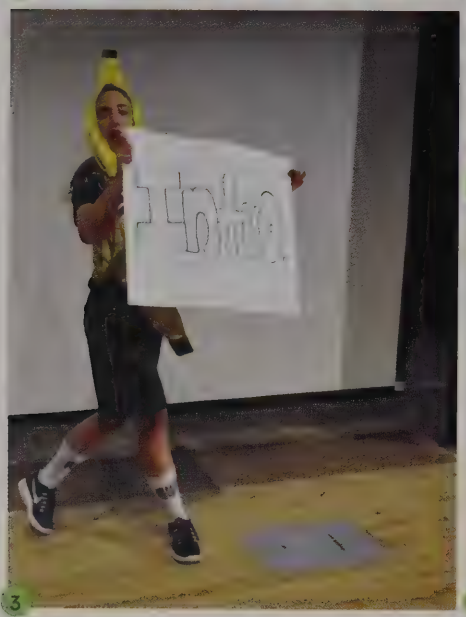
All smiles. Jordan Krans, Shante Algoo, and Azlynn Prunier all share a picture. This is Shante and Azlynn's last dance ever of their high school years, so they want to make it a memorable night.

A dance to remember. Andrew Emanuel and Alexandra Fish gaze deeply into each other's eyes, sharing the last slow dance of the night.

Save the last dance for me. Leo Gaboury and Jessica Williams share an extremely fun night together, dancing the night away and showing glowing smiles while doing it.

Shuttershocked. Sophomore Daniel Rickson, freshman Aiden Casinghino , and sophomore Cooper Audette all pose for the camera in the midst of their night at the Winter Formal.

MR. T 2015



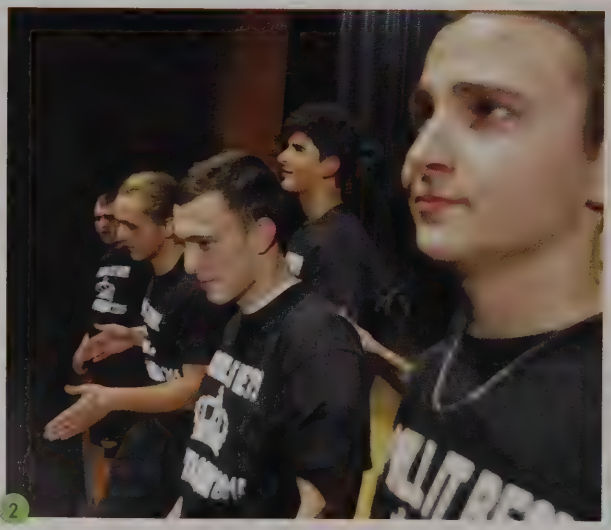
IT'S SHOWTIME! 1. Things get heated between seniors Madeline LaFlamme and Rebecca Cooper between acts. 2. Senior Samuel Knox crosses the stage strutting his stuff, fueled by pure school spirit and raw anticipation. "Mr. T. was by far my favorite memory of senior year; being with all my friends on stage and it's something I'll never forget," he said. 3. The crowd goes bananas as senior Madeline LaFlamme runs across the stage before the intro to a skit. 4. Announcers like seniors Rebecca Cooper and Riley Allumbaugh keep the audience entertained between the contestants' acts.

"I'M PROUD TO HAVE BEEN VOTED THE NEXT MR. T. THANKS TO ALL OF YOU!"

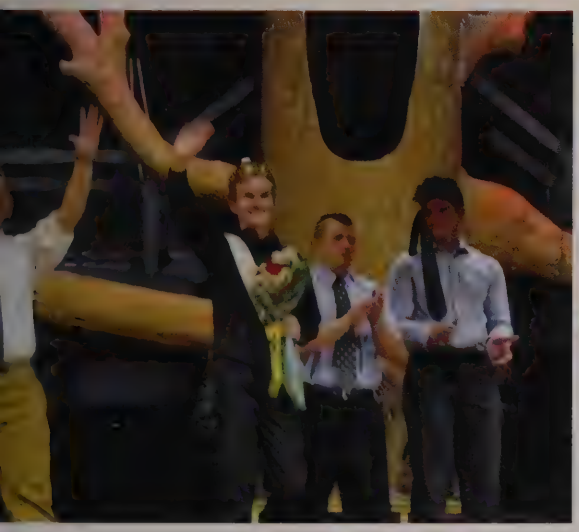
JESSE FIMIAN, SENIOR

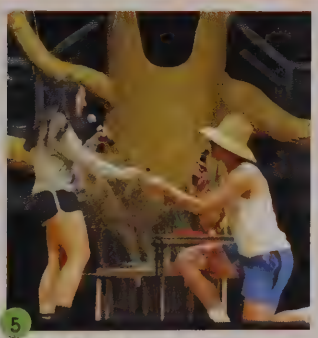
Make it rain. After proving himself worthy, senior Jesse Fimian gets showered in confetti while basking in all the glory that comes with being nominated the new Mr. T.

Prove your mettle. 1. Senior Jesse Fimian gets into one of his more creative acts as the crowd laughs approvingly at his hilarious setup. 2. The contestants line up anxiously awaiting the decision to be revealed. 3. Senior Garrett Cudgma definitely dresses the part in his wild skit from down under.



THERE HE IS...
MR. TANTASQUA





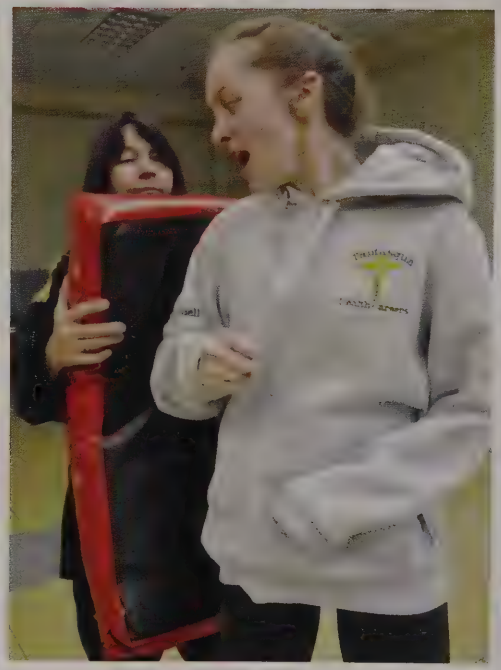
The end game. 4. Jesse Fimian thanks the audience for coming after he graciously accepts the title of Mr. T. 5. Zachary Pestaina beautifully performs his "dating advice" act. "I thought of it only a few moments before the show started, and I hoped the audience would laugh," he said.

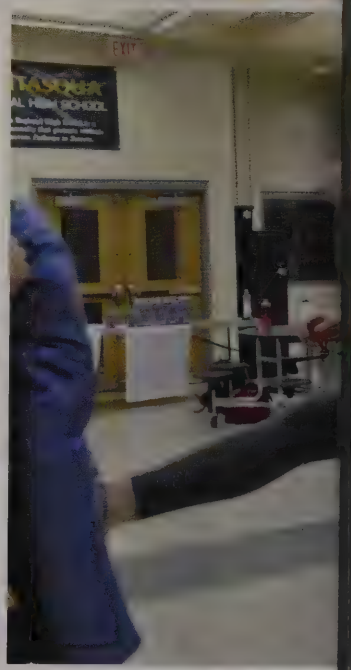
One of the most revered and yet irreverent Tantasqua traditions has to be the annual Mr. T Competition, a beauty pageant spoof in which the boys of the school compete for the coveted crown. By performing a variety of skits, routines, gags, jokes, and musical numbers, each potential winner tries to demonstrate that he alone embodies the qualities of Tantasqua. After an entertaining evening before a very amused audience, the judges made their carefully considered decision and awarded the crown to senior Jesse Fimian. With his combination of humor, goofiness, and a certain charm, he left the night with the Mr. T crown and represents the school in his new role.

Exercise self-control. Chineme Onwubueke reaches deep and throws an elbow into the bag behind her.

Be loud and strong. Vocalizing during the exercise was an important part of the activity. Megan DeMorris has total control as she practices the self-defense technique.

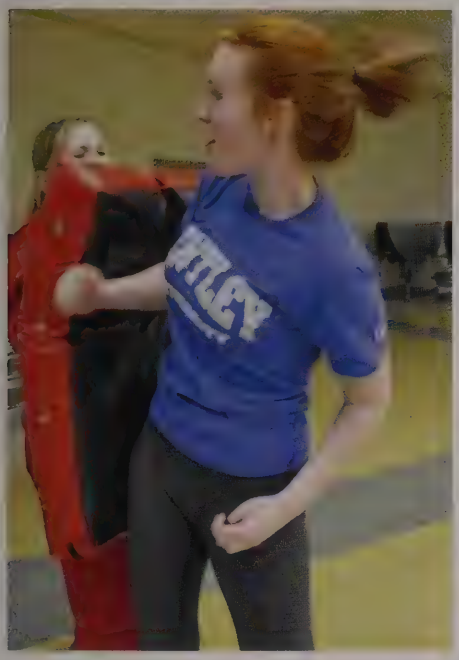
All together. Alyssa Raymond, Riley Allumbaugh, Amanda Smick, and Erin Butts practice a series of yells and kicks with the senior girls who participated in the event.





Ready for defense. Caitlyn Waddell throws her elbow behind her and keeps her eyes focused on her target.

Teacher and student. Ms. McSorley braces herself as Brittany Foley whirls around and attacks her target.



High elbow. Avery Trifone throws an elbow high up behind her.

Purple fury. Faye Rhault times her shout perfectly with the impact of her assault.

TRAINING in Self-Defense

Given the overwhelming rise of sexual assualts on college campuses, English teacher Ms. Maria McSorley wanted to give senior girls an opporunity to develop their self-confidence and empowerment. So, working with the Worcester-based Hanmi Tae Kwon Do studio, she helped students establish the first ever Martial Arts night.

Members of the National Honor Society took a leadership role. Rebecca Cooper, working with Alyssa Raymond, Alicia DeSousa, Jenny Wu, and Gavin Granitto, set up and publicized the event.

The evening helped senior girls learn some foundational self-defense techniques. Not only did they learn about methods of self-defense, but they also learned about the importance of developing their own self-confidence, feeling powerful, and asserting themselves.

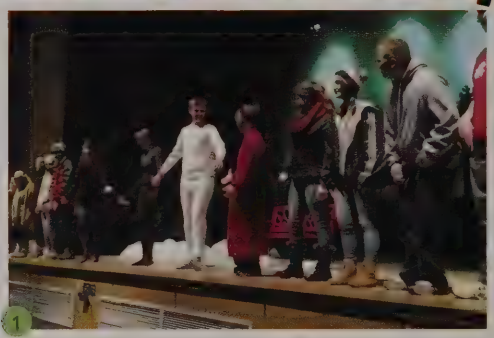
Under the guidance of Master Karen Brown, her daughter Jennifer Choe, Miss Jordan Green, and Ms. McSorley, the students had a successful night. Every participant indicated in a survey that the event be offered again next year. In fact, the Hanmi Tae Kwon Do studio is already in the process of bringing the event to other schools next year.

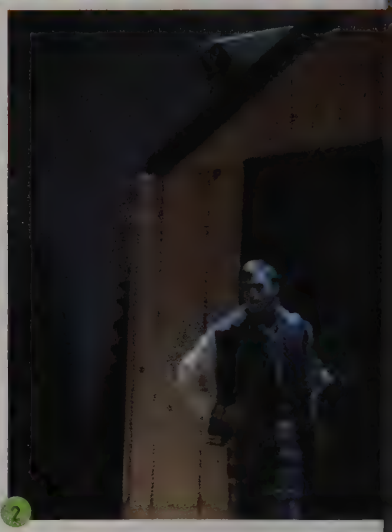
> "DOING THIS HAS MADE ME FEEL A LOT MORE CONFIDENT AND SAFE.

Repetition is key. Allison Beaudoin practices a forward kick. Students lined up and repeated the techniques they learned over and over, perfecting them as the event progressed.

QUAINT & SWEET IN ALMOST, MAINE

For the first time in years, theater came twice to Tantasqua. The fall presented the usual musical production, but students were pleasantly surprised to witness performances of "Almost, Maine," directed by Samantha Briggs. The large cast performed a series of romantic vignettes that showcased the different ways eccentric people approach the difficulties of love. Because each scene featured a small number of actors, a large number of students were able to audition and perform. Weeks of rehearsals and a beautiful set built by the carpentry students helped transform the play into an evening of sweet comedy.



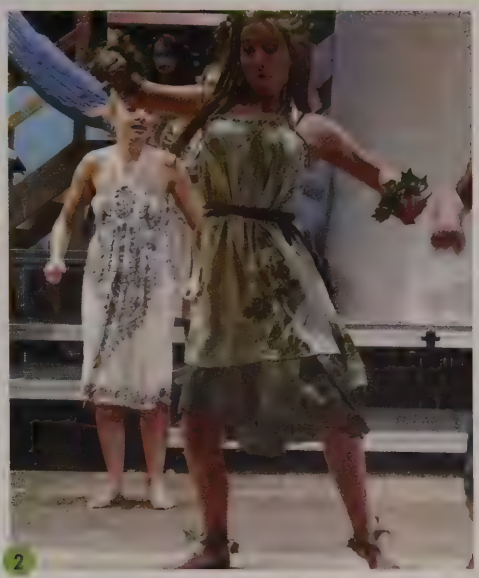


Take a bow! 1. The cast of Almost, Maine lines up to great applause at the end of their opening night performance. The audience laughed more than cast members expected. 2. Riley Allumbaugh waits out in the Maine cold while Wylder Tallman wonders why she is there. 3. An unfortunate tattoo turns into a romantic opportunity in this scene from Almost, Maine featuring Bryce Iller.

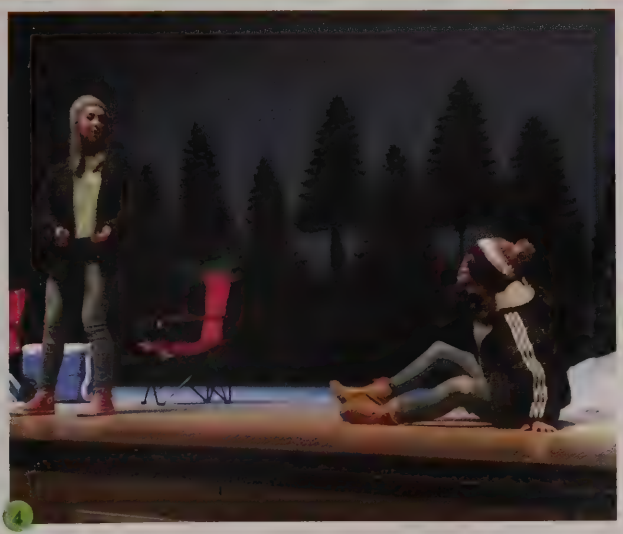
ONCE ON this island

"THIS MUSICAL WAS COMPLETELY DIFFERENT. I LOVED IT!

Ironing Out Love. Leo Gaboury plays an man paranoid about pain, and Emily O'Connell plays a housewife in a dysfunctional marriage. Together, they momentarily overcome the pain of love in this scene from Almost, Maine.

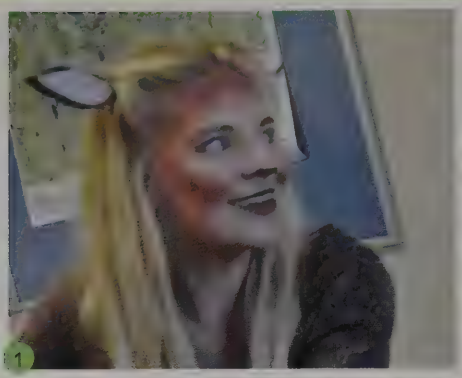


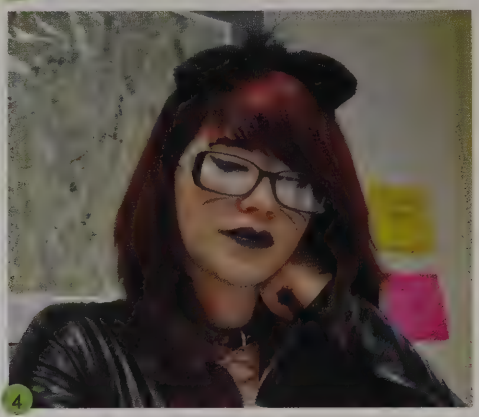
A once in a lifetime performance. 1. The fall musical featured dancing, singing, comedy, and tragedy. It was an all-around success! 2. Juliana Anderson, Lauren Maus, Kaylee Olander, and Gillian Peterson perform in a major dance scene from the musical. 3. Jason DeForge and Samantha Lowell contemplate their predicament. 4. The camera catches Juliana Anderson during a moment from "Once on this Island."



Vignettes of Love 1. Grace Ahlstrand and Hannah Raymond try to figure out of they're falling for each other after years of friendship. 2. Thomas Escobar and Kate Beland perform a scene in which they attempt to quantify the amount of love two people can give each other.

MAKE IT WITH MAKE-UP





Scary masks and crazy face makeup, only socially acceptable at Halloween. These four students took the time to wake up earlier to put on these faces. 1. "I wanted to be a deer because a cat was so mainstream" said senior Aemilia Ohop. Amelia made the deer ears herself with felt and glue. 2. Kaylee Olander appear to be a sheep. 3. A garland of flowers completes Sarah Celuzza's look. 4. Desiree Viruet makes a studious bespectacled cat. All four girls wanted to spread Halloween spirit and explore their makeup abilities. Spook-tastic makeup girls!

> "MINIONS ARE FUN AND EVIL, SO IT WAS THE PERFECT COSTUME FOR ME!
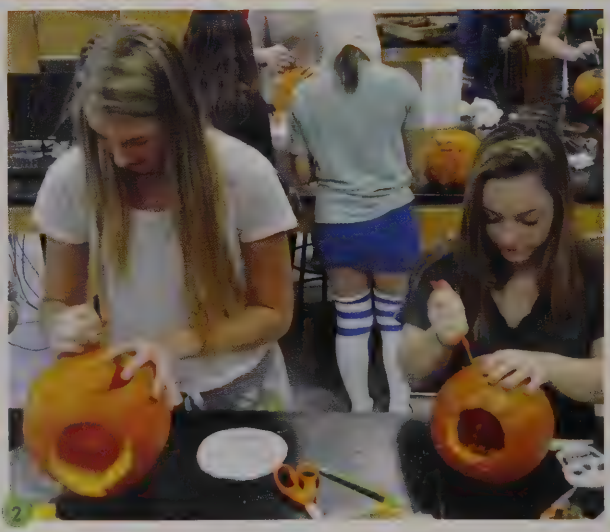
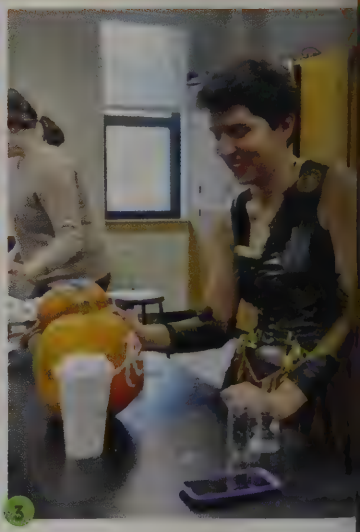
> ARIANA SPENCER, SENIOR

Bee-Do! Bee-Do! Bee-Do! Senior Ariana Spencer poses for a selfie with a stuffed minion. Who's who? "I wanted to do something fun that would make everyone laugh," said Ariana. She couldn't find a yellow shirt, so she tie-dyed a white one, found overalls at a thrift shop, and bought the goggles at Party City.





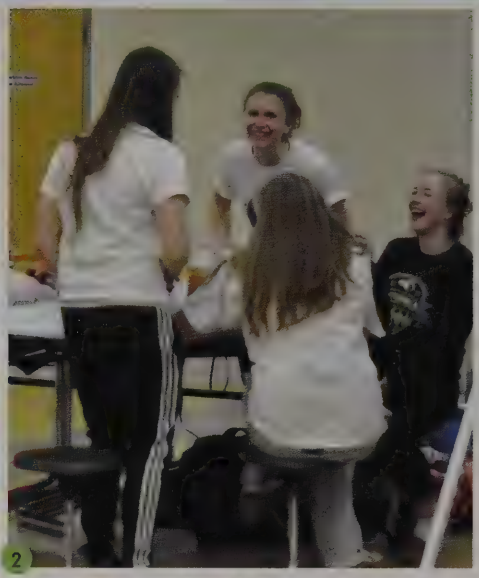
1. Elizabeth Harrell and Cassidy Shaw laugh together at lunch over how many compliments they were getting on their costumes. "Every time I went to my grandmothers house, she would have Dr.Suess books and she would read them to me," said Cassidy. 2. Brianna Pincince-McLeish and Hannah Zimmerman work on their pumpkin carvings. 3. Sara Magnuson pains some spooky bones onto her pumpkin during anatomy class.

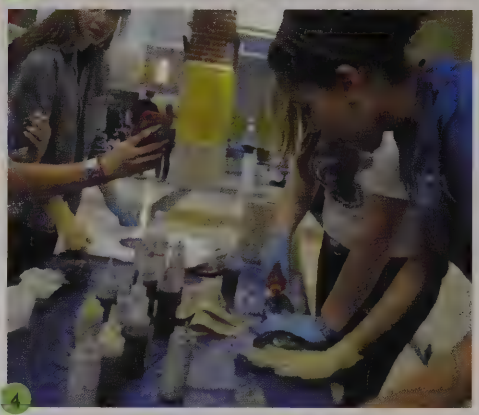
BOO! THE SPOOKIEST MONTH

4. Cooper Audette prepares to make an incision in his anatomy pumpkin.
5. Cierra Pellot stands out in her Psychology class. She was supposed to be matching with her friend, but ended up being the only devil in the school!

November is full of fun, from Halloween to pumpkin carving in class! Mr. Bob Jefferson's class was able to convince him to carve body parts into pumpkins since they were studying anatomy. Sara Magnuson said, "We had to convince him it was relevant to the course." A student brought in over 20 pumpkins for everyone to carve. Some students chose to paint instead of carve. Sara chose to paint a hand "I wanted to paint to do it easier," she said. Cooper Audette chose to carve his pumpkin. "It was nasty, but it was worth it," she said. Brianna Pincince-McLeish and Hannah Zimmerman were carving faces into their pumpkins. "It was an easy going day and got us into the Halloween Spirit," said Cooper.

RELAY FOR LIFE





Pulling an all-nighter 1. No one had a chance in the cake-eating contest against Daimon Breckterfield, who stared at his piece with laser focus and consumed it in seconds. 2. Madison Doherty and Alyssa Kievra hang out near their tent, where they had a "sick setup" that included a Wii and two air mattresses. 3. Musical chairs reached an almost dangerous level of competition, keeping everyone awake. 4. Kahri Williams helped out at the "Be Good to People" club's popular table, where you could tie-dye your Relay shirt for a small donation

> "IT WAS POWERFUL TO SEE SURVIVORS AND SUPPORTERS COME TOGETHER.
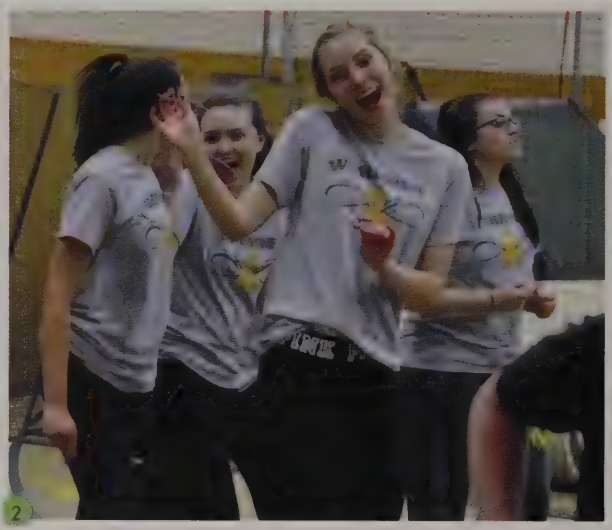
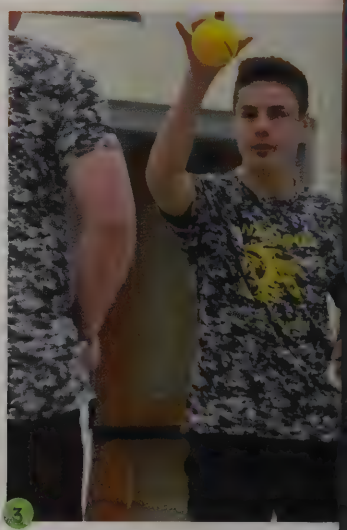
> MADISON DOHERTY, JUNIOR

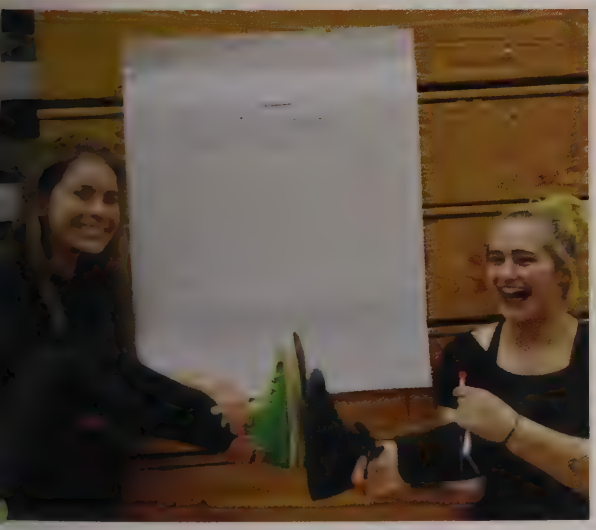
Real life superhero. JR Willis, who completed the most laps, spoke movingly about surviving cancer multiple times. When he was a child, he chose the middle name "Spider Man," and he's lived up to the spirit of his favorite superhero.





1. Ms. Maria McSorley leads the "Be Good to People" members around the track, determined to get the most laps. 2. While Maddie Miller, who had recently been diagnosed with cancer, couldn't attend, she had a strong support system, including Rachael Hooker, Anna Sosik, and Jillian Arello. 3. Camden Rowe enjoys some games and activities in the cafeteria.

WALKING our way to a cure

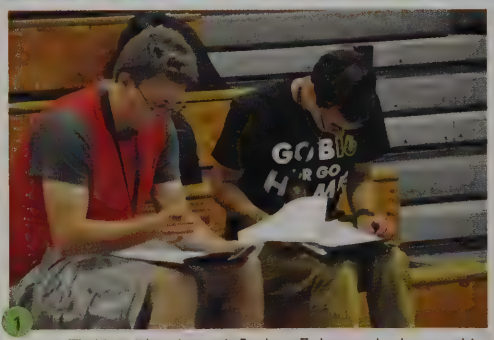


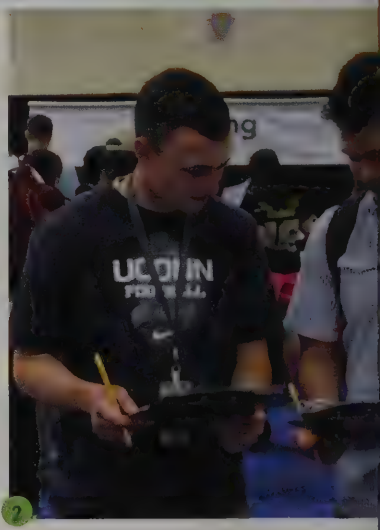
Any Colour you Like. 4. Ella Sosik and Emily O'Connell represent their team with black and green 5. Jesse Fimian and Keshav Patel, who worked the event, were animated and hyped-up all through the night.

Students, staff members, and families from the community came to Tantasqua's Relay for Life to raise money for cancer research. The cafeteria, field house, and auditorium hosted teams who took turns walking all night to show support for those whose lives have been affected by this deadly disease. As they work to raise money for this serious cause, students create and enjoy an often festive atmosphere. The event offers hope, after all. Students love setting up tents and break stations, playing games, munching on food, swimming, and feeling the solidarity of people who have come together to accomplish something.

EARNING CREDIT FOR LIFE

The annual Credit for Life assembly brought graduating seniors together with local banks and businesses to help them predict what their economic future might be. Students had to calculate financial obligations like mortgages, loan payments, and retirement savings against the income the could expect to earn. By running through the activities, students learned what they could expect when, after college, they finally face the circumstances of the simulation in their own day-to-day lives. The assembly was a fun way for students to get serious about the future.



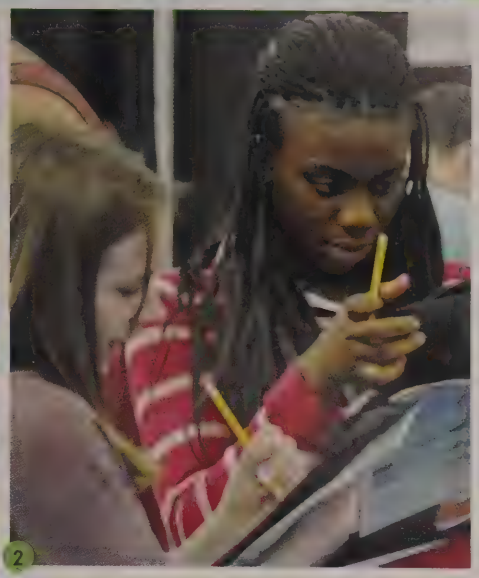


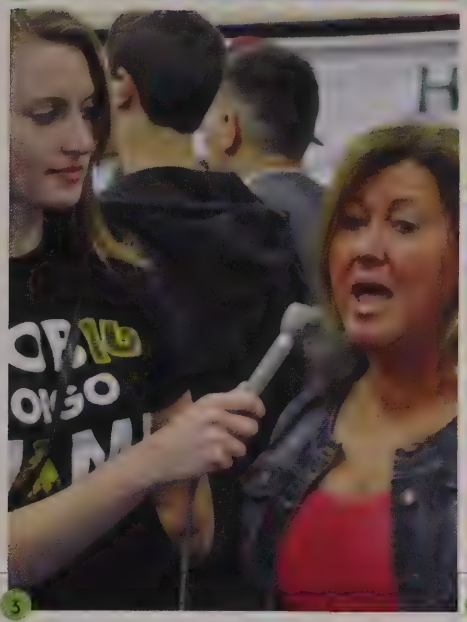
Making big plans. 1. Joshua Belanger looks over his information and tries to determine which financial path his future should take. 2. Sam Knox and Daimon Beckterfield compare notes at the Credit for Life Assembly. 3. Emma Boland asks a question about one of the displays in the field house.

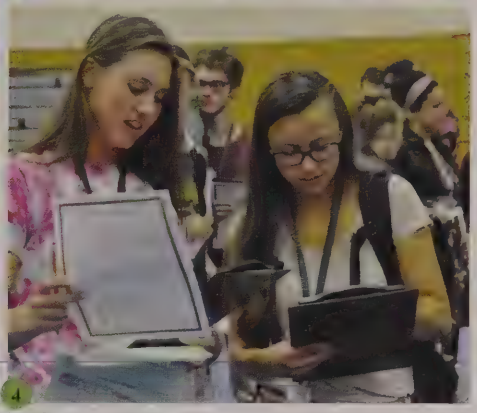
A BUSY ASSEMBLY

> THIS WAS A FUN WAY TO LEARN HOW MY FINANCIAL FUTURE MIGHT LOOK.

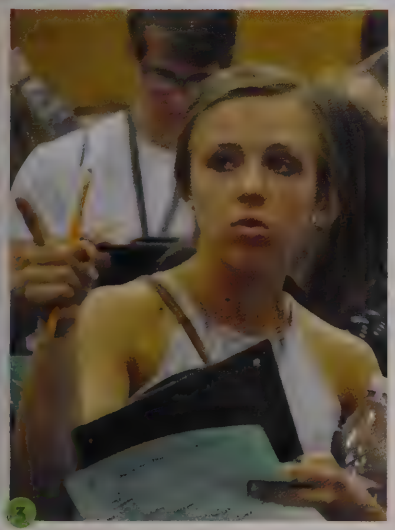
Planning with a friend. Anna Ternerowiz and Carrie Wiator work together as they map out their future. Students were assigned different incomes and chose different financial goals to see how they might plan ahead in life.

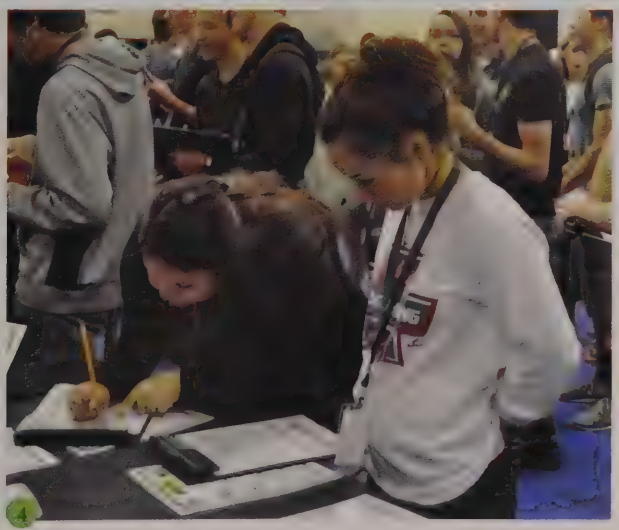






A flurry of activity. 1.Amelia Ashworth, Megan DeMorris, Meg Geyer, and Sabina Prenneis proudly display their unique ID badges. 2. Sarah Peck and Chineme Onwubueke studiously review their notes. 3. Allison Beaudoin holds the microphone so Ms. Leigh Joseph can make an announcement. 4. Catherine Chasse and Kelly Austin are ready to tackle the Credit for Life obstacles and challenges ahead of them!

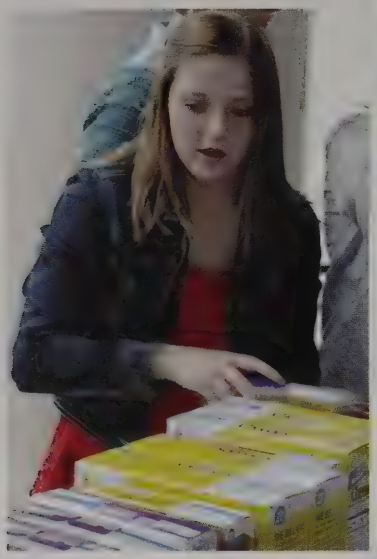




Serious and silly. 1. Briana Princess-McLeish and Sylvia Wong fill out the required paperwork. 2. Mr. Peter Dobrobowski already has his economic future figured out, so he enjoys a moment on a skateboard.

Healthy veggies. Hannah Sorensen and Eric Rousseau sort through the hundreds of canned food goods theyr received during the food drive.

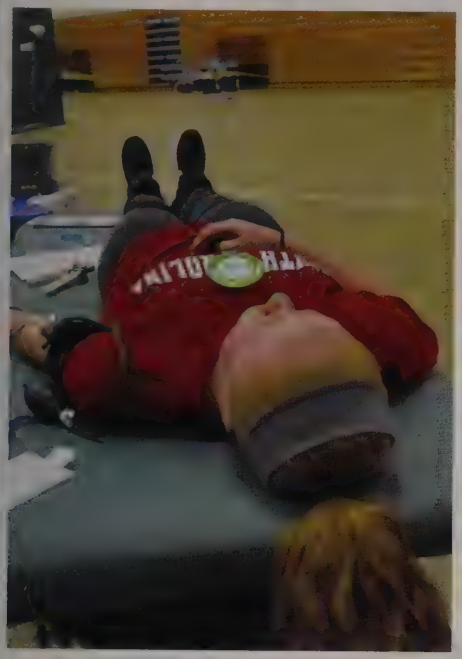
So many Cherrios. Allison O'Neil finds herself on cereal duty as the NHS students sort through donations in the cafeteria.

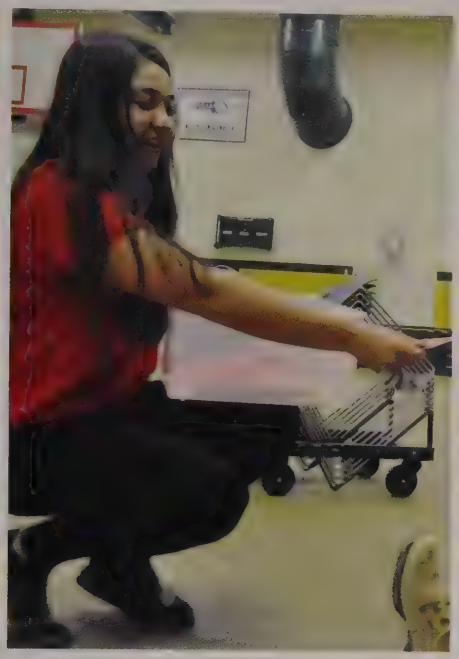


Food Drive Teamwork Logan Melican, Gene Munnis, and Justin Rothweiler work together and prepare the food for delivery.

A Can in Each Hand Cullen McCarthy waits to find out where the cans will be sorted to.

BLOOD DRIVE There are many ways for students to help out during the year. After the food and toy drives of the fall and winter, students have an opportunity to donate blood in the spring. Emily Blanchard reclines as she waits for the blood donation to end. Sylvia Wong passes out snacks and passes while students like Judith Blanchard recover and show off their bandages.





HELPING HANDS

students get involved

All year long, from Relay for Life to the Winter Toy Drive, students find ways to show they care. Students realize that they're not just members of a high school, but members of a bigger community that needs their support.

That's why the National Honor Society and the Student Council team up for events like the food drive. Students in all grades bring in cans of food and other nonperishable items. The class with the most donated food is eligible for a prize. Each class worked incredibly hard to bring in food, not only for the hope of a breakfast reward, but also to help those less fortunate during the holidays.

After the food is collected, NHS students gather in the cafeteria to sort it all out and prepare it for delivery. Finally, they deliver all the food to those in need withing the community, leaving all involved with a feeling of accomplishment and pride.

Other opportunities for giving, like the blood drive and toy drive, also allow students at Tantasqua to practice responsible involvement with the community. These inspirational students really do work hard to make an important difference.

> "IT'S SO IMPORTANT TO FIND A WAY TO HELP OTHERS HOWEVER WE CAN.

Soup for a Cause. Connor Ricci holds up a couple of cans of soup that were donated to the food drive.

MAKING THE HOLIDAYS FUN

Just when students are getting tired of their academic workload and think they can't solve another equation or analyze one more poem, the holidays arrive and bring a welcome spirit of relief. Whether they spend their time helping to support a good cause, dress up in silly holiday-themed costumes, decorate their classrooms and lockers, or simply prepare for relaxation of the winter recess from classes, it seems students embrace the winter festivities with all their heart. Once the winter break is over and students are back in classes in January, they've had just the break they needed and are ready to hit the books once more.

> "OUR HOLIDAY SPIRIT IS AMAZING. EVERYONE GETS SO INTO IT."
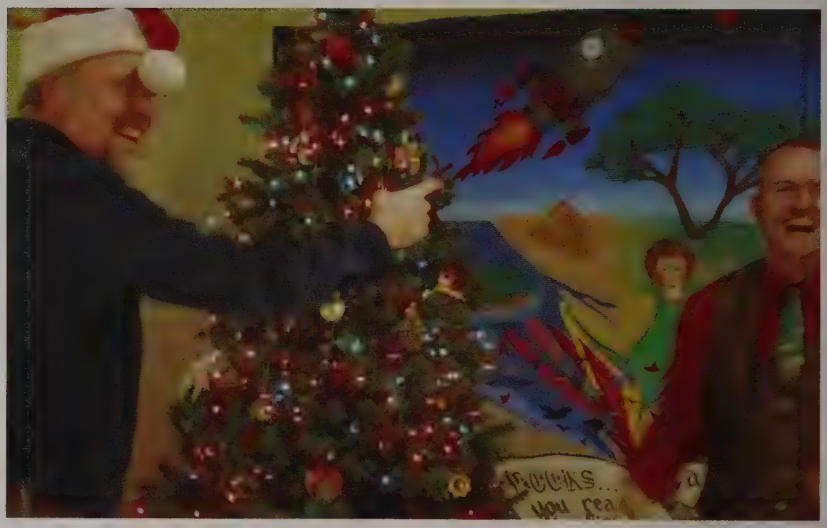
> MOANA LOTT, JUNIOR

Cowabunga Christmas! Sabrina Bouchard takes a moment to show off her "ugly sweater" featuring Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.



Teacher decoration. Mr. Sean Cusick and Mr. Michael Metz share a moment of humor as they decorate a Christmas tree.

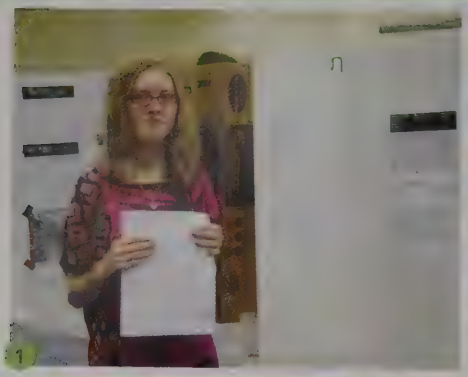
Bass clarinetist extraordinaire. The festive holiday hallway concert is a lot of fun, but takes some effort to set up. "We have to carry our instruments up the stairs and disturb the classes to spread holiday cheer," said junior Dara Shanahan.

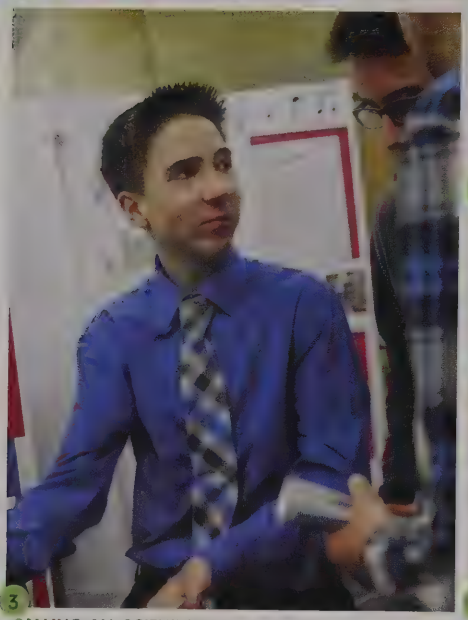
Caroling in the hallway. Victoria Kirkland, Alyssa Raymond, Rachel Rynearson, and Shamus Tibbert sing along to the surprise third floor holiday concert performance.

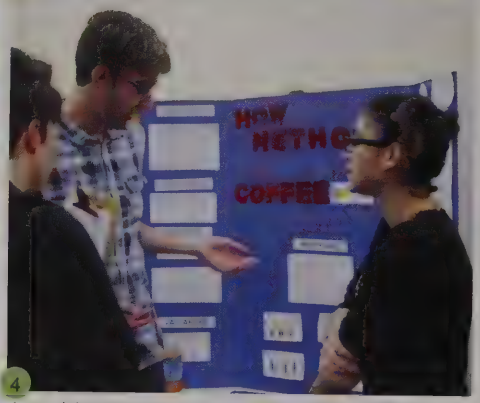
Brass sounds. Alex Watson blasts his trumpet at the hallway holiday concert on the third floor.

Festive Christmas apparel.
1. Bennet Farrell dons a makeshift Christmas tree hat and balances it on his head.
2. Mackenzie Falke opts for the traditional Peanuts-themed holiday sweater, capturing the unique irony of a Charlie Brown Christmas.
3. It's all smiles and bright festive Christmas trees for Alexis Freitas.

TIME FOR SCIENCE



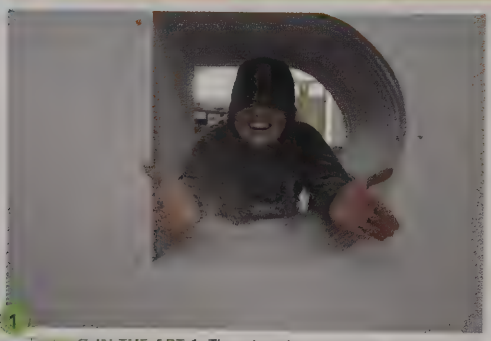


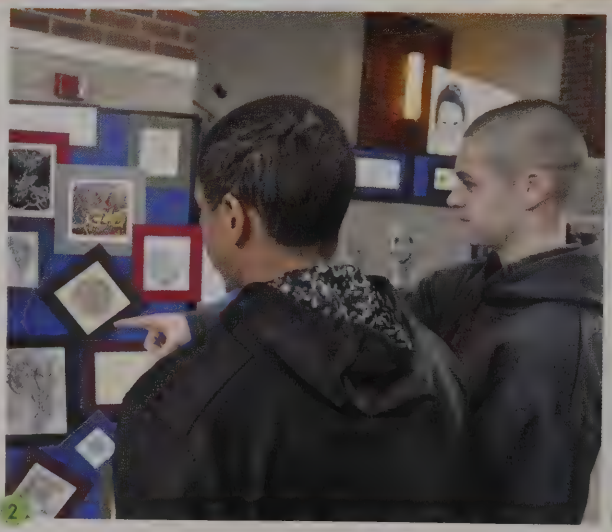


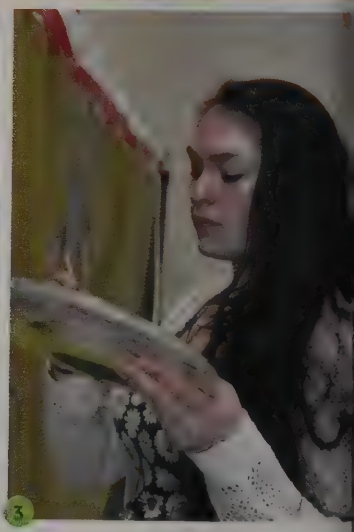
CALLING ALL SCIENTISTS 1. Lila Parker is ready to explain her exhibit about the profound effect of music on organisms. 2. Noah Berthiaume discusses his science project with another student. 3. Nickolas Shea looks the part with his matching shirt and tie. 4. Maxwell Houde and Maija Santos discuss how different brewing methods can affect the acidity of coffee. It's an important question for seniors who depend on their daily caffeine to wake up.

> "I THINK THAT ALL ARTS DAY IS A GOOD REPRESENTATION OF THE ARTS AT TANTASQUA.

Art in action. Thea Bulak watches as Mikhaela Kryger works on a mural at All Arts Day.

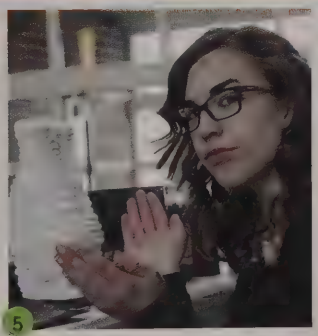






TAKING IN THE ART 1. The giant letters spelling out "ART" in the main foyer made for some interesting photo opportunities. 2. Micah Laird and Drew Peretti examine some of the art work in the lobby. 3. Jordan Nugent spent a good deal of All Arts Day painting her giant mural.

ALL ART ALL DAY



On display 1. Grace Ahlstrand and Marie Stewart seem unaware of the Andy Warhol caricature behind them. 2. Olivia Houde showcases an intricate piece of pottery.

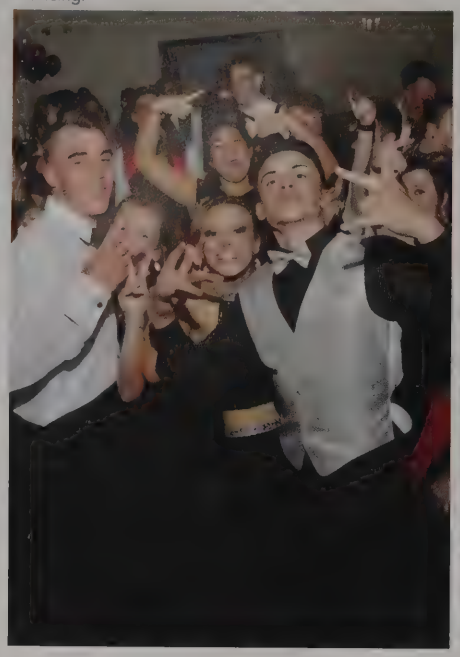
Students produce an incredible amount of art during their classes, but the thing about art is that it's meant to be exhibited. That's why Tantasqua hosts an annual All Arts Day to showcase the many paintings, sculptures, jewelry, and other art work that students have produced. All day long, teachers can take their students down to the art wing of the school. There are musical performances, too. This year, the science fair was held in the Field House at the same time as All Arts Day, so the school was truly an amazing exhibition of student work in both the arts and sciences.

UNDER THE BIG

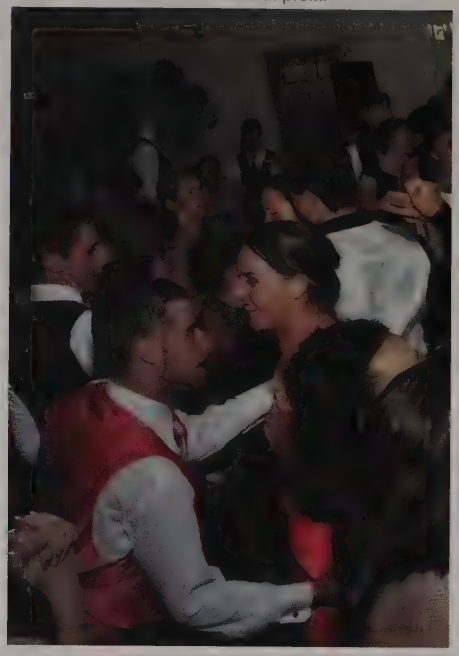
ents occupy the dance floor at the circus-themed prom. After posing for photos in their tuxedos gowns, dining on a pasta and chicken dinner, and socializing, it was time to dance!

TOP

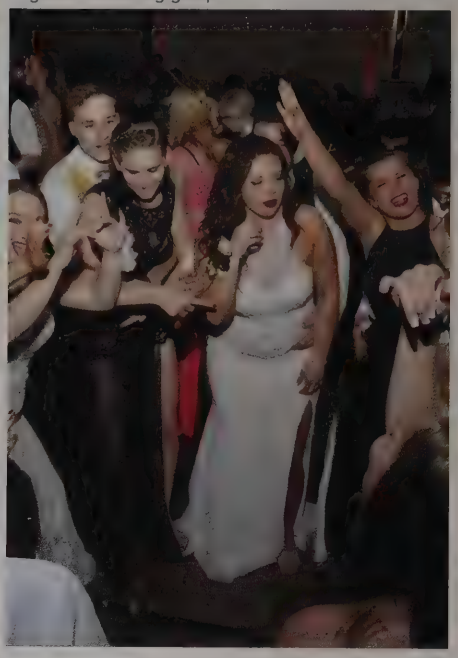
Dance fever. Griffin Brooks, Alexander DuBois, Samantha Gleason, and Sylvia Wong pose on the dance floor, exhausted and exhilarated from so much dancing.



Dancing queen. Catherine Chasse smiles as she dances in a crowd of students at prom.



Dancing away with your friends. Megaen Cloutier, Sonia Dunn, Krystina Nieves, and Zoeii Snyder dance together in one big group.



A PROM to remember

> THE BEST PART OF PROM WAS DANCING ALL NIGHT WITH ALL OF MY FRIENDS!

When you think about it, prom is only several hours long. There's the family photos before you leave, perhaps a limo ride to the event, some eating and dancing, and then, perhaps, some after-prom plans. And yet, prom is the most singular and important social event of high school.

That's why student council members begin planning for it a year ahead of time, looking for a venue and planning the theme. This year, prom goers discovered a circus-themed prom, Under the Big Tent. Festive circus decorations and popcorn were featured on every table.

But all eyes, of course, were on the formal wear, the gowns and tuxedos and hair styles. Prom is, after all, the last big event before graduation, and in a way seniors are finally saying goodbye to the high school.

After a delicious dinner, students at the prom did what students do best at social events like this: they took to the dance floor, shed their shoes, and danced their hearts out. Even though the event was only several hours long, it generated enough memories for students to reflect back on for years to come.

Back to the dance floor. Jordan Nugent and Robert Briere have finished their dinner and are almost ready to dance!

Strutting their stuff. Cole Amadio, Cooper Audette, Camille Bourbeau, Dylan Cave, Meaghan Lowell, Meghan Meserole, Victoria Miles, and Adam Phillips definitely know how to have a good time on the dance floor.

Another headline here. Jason DeForge, Curt Allen and friends enjoy the fine dinner before the dancing begins.

Say cheese! Nicholas Dhembe, Darius Diblasi, Madison Girouard, Brian Moriarty, Micayla Mullins, Alexis St Francis, and Travis Zachariewicz line up for an incredible pre-prom photograph.

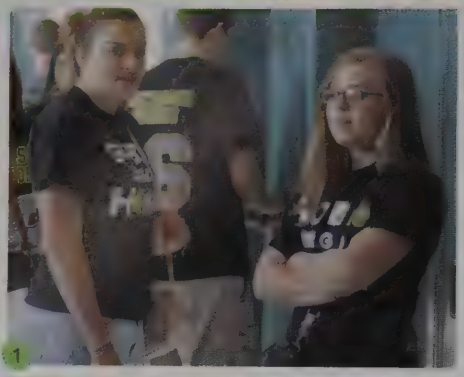
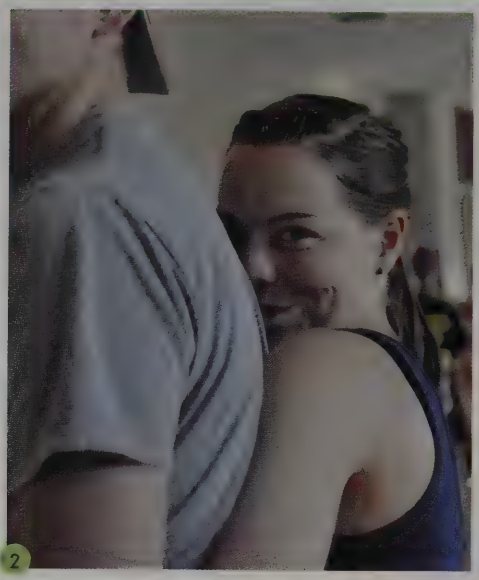
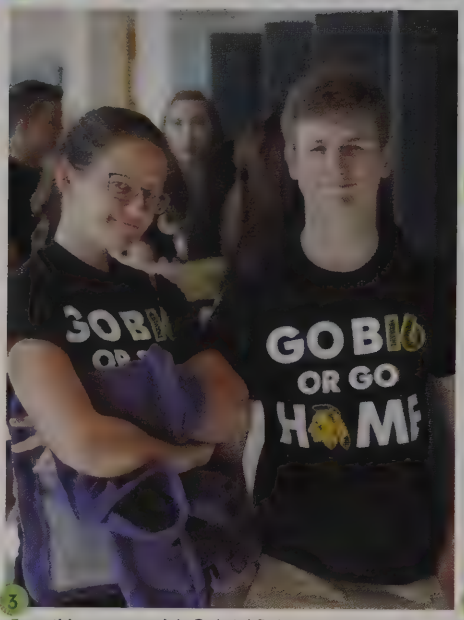
IT'S LOCKER CLEANOUT







Everything must go! 1. Gabriel Roberts and Amelia Ashworth have nothing left to remove from their lockers and are cleared and ready to fo. 2. Junior Violet Sacco gives Garrett Cudgma a hug goodbye. This was one of the last times juniors and seniors would be in the building together. 3. Erin Butts and Matthew Menard strike a pose as they await the end of locker cleanout. 4. Aurore Looney and Jessica Lussier have their locker passes and are ready to move on.

"I'M SORT OF EXCITED, BUT MOSTLY TERRIFIED BY UNCERTAINTY."

ELIZA DAY, SENIOR

One more day. Cierra Pellot and Ariana Spencer arrive from the parking lot, the last time they will enjoy the privilege of parking so close to the entrance of the school.

Senior gear and coffee 1. Brooke Gaspari and Megaen Cloutier are sure to wear their senior pride shirts whenever they can. 2. Hannah Zimmerman has no time to pause for a photo. 3. Gene Munnis carries his tuba with him, ready to rehearse for graduation.

THE FINAL ARRIVAL

A warm morning. 4. Even though it's one of the last days she'll be in the building, Sarah Laflamme has a lot to carry! 5. Hunter Boudreau and friends enjoy the sunshine and warm weather as they walk from the parking lot to the school.

The final exams are over, the classes are done, and all that is left is the formality of the graduation ceremony itself. But seniors still have to come back to school one last time for graduation rehearsal and locker clean-out. They arrived A-block, clutching iced coffees. "It's a relief to finally be done. The last few months have been lethargic, and the senioritis was so real," said Rosalyn Sosik. With the sun shining and a warm breeze, it was the perfect day for seniors to see each other one more time before they would all be wearing their green graduation gowns and marching across the stage to receive their hard-earned diplomas.

ONE FINAL GOODBYE

A radical graduation. Daimon Breckterfield, covered in flowers, is happy and ready for life beyond high school.

> WE WERE LUCKY TO GO TO A SCHOOL WITH SUCH A GREAT STAFF AND OPPORTUNITIES.
> SARAH LAFLAMME, SENIOR

After thirteen years of public education, the day finally comes: graduation. It's a day to celebrate how much students have accomplished and to offer advice for the future. In thoughtful speeches, student speakers Meg Geyer, Heather Cho, Oscar Appleton, Sarah LaFlamme, and Curt Allen helped frame the significance of the education students had received at Tantasqua. Parents beamed and took photos, administrators offered congratulations, and teachers saluted the students they'd taught. Mostly, though, the class of 2016 looked forward to a bright future in which they'd continue to learn, grow, and contribute to the world around them.

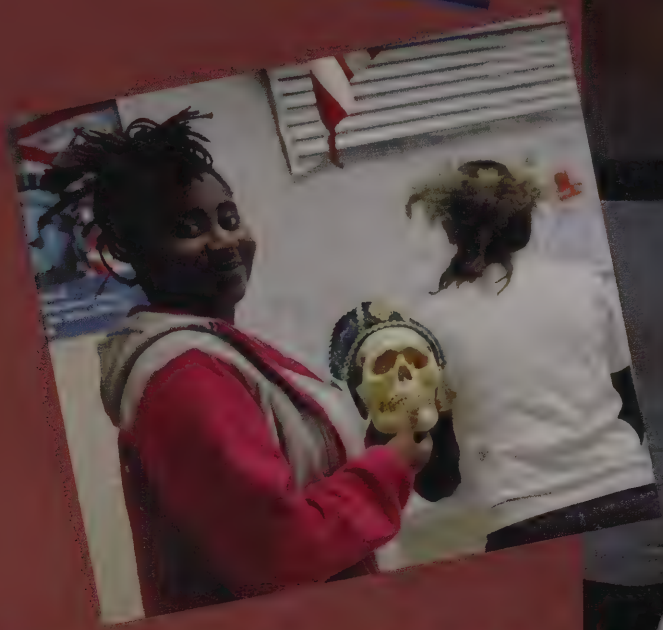
Officially pronounced graduates! The seniors move their tassels from the right side of the mortarboard to left, signifying that they have officially graduated and are no longer high school students.

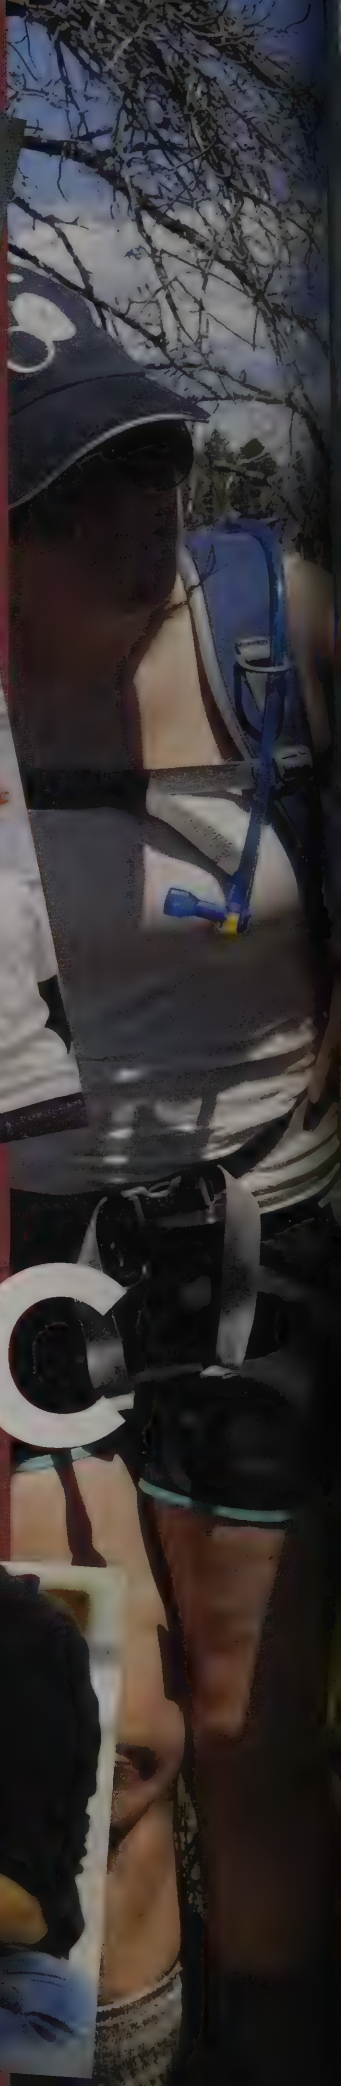
Filing out. Chineme Onwubueke and Michelle Ochieng discuss the ceremony as they exit the Field House following the graduation ceremony.

Family photo time. It seems every family member wants his or her own photo of the graduate! Shante Algoo smiles and poses as everyone tries to get the perfect shot.

Traditional mortarboard toss. Seniors cheer and toss their mortarboards up in the air.

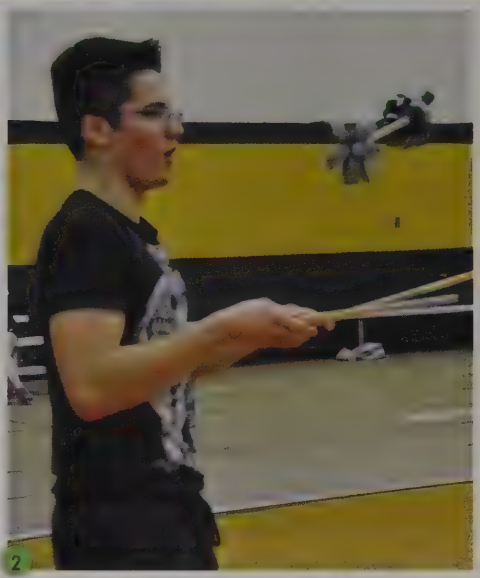
1. Drew Darger and Luke Hoy share a humorous moment in class while Taive Muenzberg talks with a friend. 2. Lydie Senatus holds a skull during class. 3. Art students enjoy the space of the hallway as they complete their projects. 4. Mr. Jefferson examines some animal bones with Chandler Curboy, Sofia George, and Henry Valcour. They were in South Dakota at Custer State Park during the 2015 summer vacation.





ACADEMIC LIFE

IN AND OUT FOR GYM



Physical education: indoors and outdoors 1. When you've spend your gym block running around outside for an hour, it's nice to have a friend there to tie your shoes for you. 2 Back inside, there are all kinds of activities and games to play, including some that help develop hand-eye coordination. 3. In the spring, when the weather if finally warm enough, students can play tennis for gym class. 4. After a block of fitness and physical activity, spirits are high and faces are silly as students come back inside.

"IT'S IMPORTANT TO TAKE TIME TO MAKE SURE YOU'RE STAYING FIT.

Not bad for a sophomore. Thomas Mazeika takes a deep breath and prepares to do another set in the weight room.

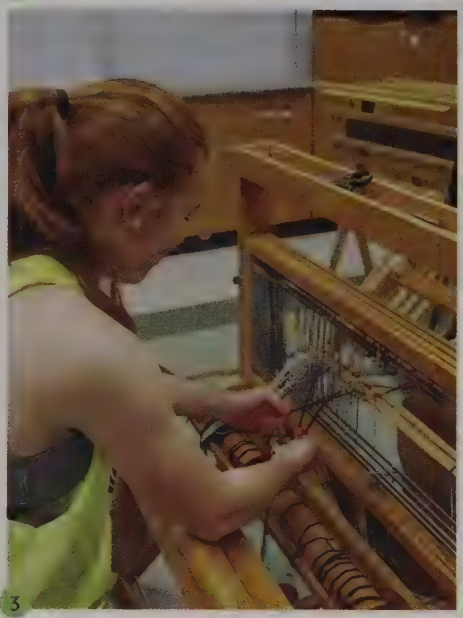
A well-rounded routine. 1. There are different ways to work out with weights. This student starts from a squat. 2. Before lifting the weights over his head, it's important to take a deep breath and be ready. 3. After a couple of months of weight training,the results are easy to see.

WELCOME TO THE ARM FARM

Cleaning up the competition. Senior Cole France bulks up by lifting weights almost every day. 2. Senior Jordan Choquette carefully spots sophomore Zachary Zibold as he finishes his last rep on the bench press.

On any given day before, after or, even during school, you can find a handful of students working out in the weight room. Whether it is to gain a competitive edge in their respective sport, to clear their mind, or just plain get in shape, students spend countless hours in the weight room throughout the course of the year. Many students chose to work out after school, giving them a mental break. In the past, a couple of sports fitness classes were taught by Mr. Cascaceli, but recently, with the growing popularity of the course, almost every physical education teacher now has their own class. Often meeting every other day for training, the course gives students a good chance to get fit in both body and mind.

FOCUS ON ART



Making sense of the colors. 1. Through the loom, a student tries to keep her threads straight to produce a fine fiberoptics project. 2. With a palate of wonderful blue paint and earbuds full of music, the painting moves closer to completion. 3. Catherine Simonds pulls the fibers through the loom and sorts them. 4. Thomas Muir enjoys the company of his fellow art students as he finishes his project.

> "ART CLASS WAS THE ONE PLACE WHERE I COULD FORGET LIFE'S STRESS AND CREATE.

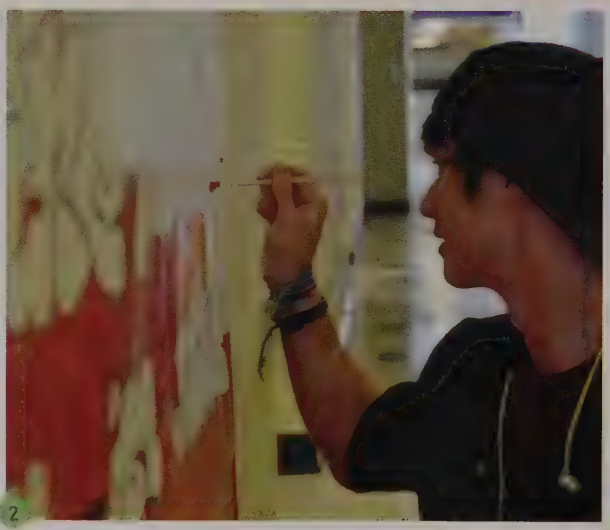
> ASBY LAFOUNTAIN, JUNIOR

Art outdoors. The patio is the perfect setting for senior Anna Tenerowicz as she works on her weaving project.

Drawing and painting. 1. Senior Daimon Beckterfield smiles as he works on his next project. Damon is said to be a "gifted artist" and has tremendous ability with a pencil.
2. Jacob Gamache uses a lot of orange paint as he works toward completing his project in the hallway.



CREATIVITY AT ITS FINEST

5 Beauty in Art. Senior Zoey Pilate paints her beautiful mural that now hangs on the wall of the second floor.

Art class is the one class where students can take a journey through their imagination, be creative, and create brilliant masterpieces. Art class is very different from any other class. Students that take drawing, print making, small, metals, and pottery, and get to learn new ways of creating beautiful art. "I came from a different school, and the art classes here are on an entire different level than where I came from," said one student. Through art, students are able to not only relax their minds, but they also get to express themselves through their artwork. One student even said, "Seeing all of the art work done by our school makes me feel so proud and privileged to go to this school."

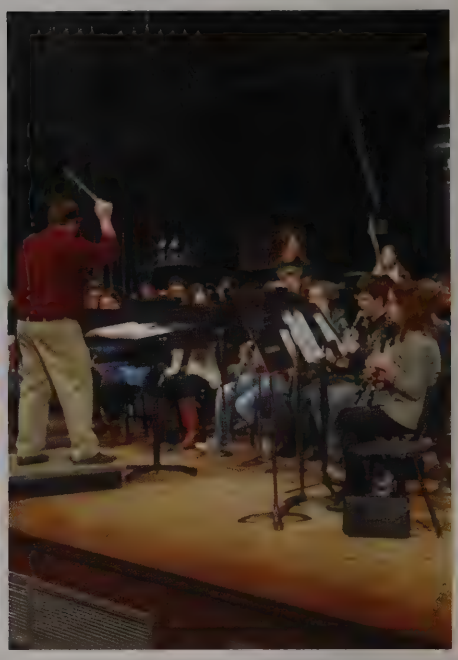
A rehearsal on the stage in the auditorium helps the orchestra prepare for the concert.



MUSIC IN EVERY SEASON

"I LOVE HAVING THE CHANCE TO TRAVEL AND PERFORM FOR AN AUDIENCE."

Music at Tantasqua: it's a big deal.

Whether students are performing at one of the high school's season concerts, marching in a local parade to commemorate a holiday, or traveling to Boston to perform a the State House, students have many opportunities to showcase their talent for an audience.

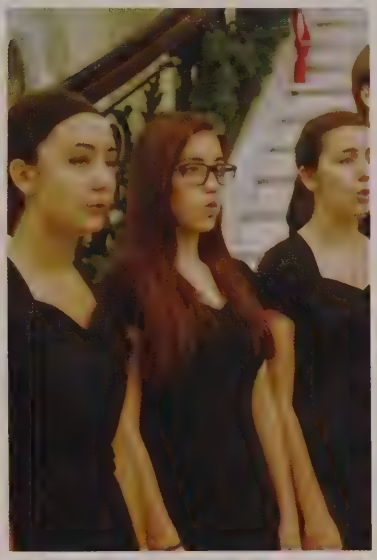
Big events like the Show Choir Showcase give student performers a valuable opportunity to present highly complex choreographed dance routines while singing lyrics and making dramatic entrances and exits.

Winter Concerts bring the community in from the cold and allow instrumentalists to collaborate on traditional favorites and new songs.

The effort of all the students in the music department comes together to create memories even in ordinary moments, like when the orchestra and marching band lead the rolling rallies or hold the holiday concerts in the hallway. Students in the music suite share a close bond as they work together under the guidance of their music teachers. With the experience they gain, their future is promising.

Hitting all of the notes. Jack Bouhanna plays the xylophone

Riley Allumbaugh, Juliana Anderson, Sarah Celuzza, Gillian Peterson, and Emily Cummings sing at the annual State House concert.



Sam Cloutier takes a moment to reflect as he prepares for the next rehearsal piece.

Curt Allen, Riley Allumbaugh, Kate Beland, Joshua Belanger, Emily Cummings, Jason DeForge, Leo Gaboury, and Timothy Portwood are in formation at the State House and ready to peform.

Before sunset. After a long day exploring the nature preserves of Costa Rica, students find their second wind as they run down the beach.

Group photos. Whether they were ascending to the top of a rocky summit, leaping into the ocean, or encountering a muddy flat, students knew that they had to pause long enough to take photos that they could use to remember the wonderful experience of the trip.

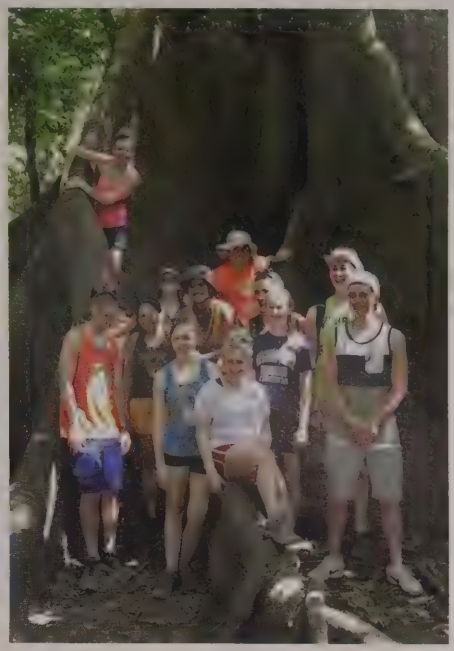
Biodiversity in action. Sylvia Wong finds an especially hairy caterpillar on the edge of a leaf.

Putting down roots. At the base of a giant tree, students the perfect sport for a group photograph



COSTA RICA IS THE CLASSROOM

During the April vacation, while most students were resting at home or working extra shifts to save up some money, a group of students went to Costa Rica for an environmental science field trip.

Under the guidance of Mr. Kelly, students on the trip certainly had a vacation of their own, enjoying the beautiful beaches, swimming, and overall environment. But the trip had a strong educational purpose, too.

While they are there, students learn about species and ecosystem biodiversity, energy sources like hydroelectric facilities and wind farms, plate tectonics, and conservation.

Because no country has more land set aside for preservation as Costa Rica, the students are able to see nature reserves and national parks. Conservation: no country has more land set aside as preservation land in the form of national parks and nature reserves. THey also learn about Costa Rica's commitment to low-impact sustainable agriculture.

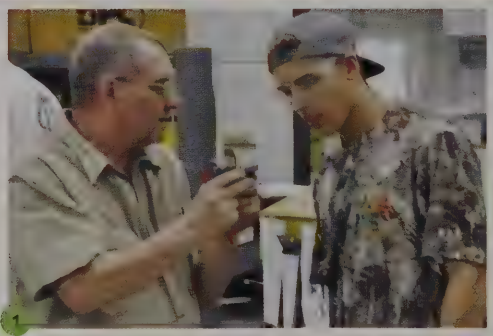
Of course, the sunsets are beautiful, and the experiences they have will stay with students for the rest of their lives. But hopefully they will learn to apply what they learn to the environment and agriculture of the United States, too.

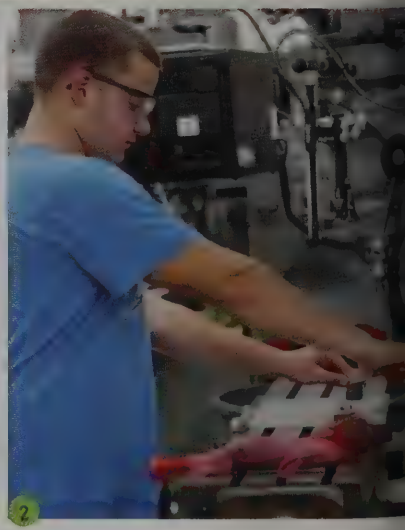
> "IT WAS AN AMAZING AND BEAUTIFUL EXPERIENCE THAT I CAN HARDLY DESCRIBE.

The man with the plan. Mr. Stephen Kelly, the AP Environmental Science teachers and trip organizer, makes a swing out of some low-hanging vines in the forest.

SHOP TIME
future machinists

What is Machine shop? It is the backbone of all other industries. The students in machine shop learn how to take raw materials and turn them into mechanical parts. They are learning how to make the machines that make everything else. "People don't realize how important this shop really is," said Mr. Russo. Right now there is a shortage of well trained young machinists globally. These young machinists have great opportunities for jobs and and a good chance of moving up the ladder. Machine shop really is a vital part of the industrial world.



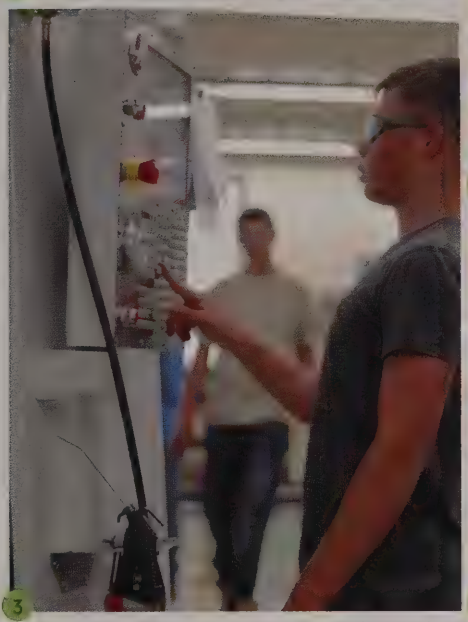


Living the machine life. 1. Senior Steven Govoni and teacher Mr. Larriviere discuss the importance of measurements for his upcoming project. "I'm planning on turning a square stock into a cylindrical part." 2. Senior Christopher Bartczak is creating vices on the milling machine. "I've been doing theses for awhile. It's still hard." 3. Aodhan McDonnell is "always smiling while working" on his machine bolts while using the milling machine.

ALWAYS Focused

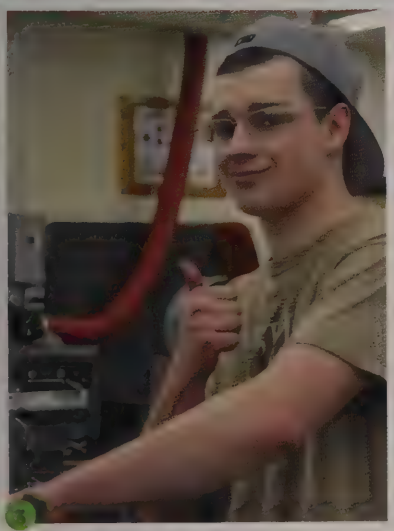
"MACHINE SHOP HAS ALWAYS BEEN MY FAVORITE CLASS. I LOOK FORWARD TO IT EVERY DAY.

STEVEN GOVONI, SENIOR



Hard at work. 1. Senior Christopher Bartczak is sanding down the handle for the hammer that he's making on the monarch lathe machine. 2 Senior Trey is hard at work on the milling machine cutting out a cribbage board. 3. Senior Eric Rousseau is programming the CNC machine. 4. Senior Shannon Rogers is grinding away rust on the top of a piston.

Determination is key. Vance Gilman looks on as her teacher helps demonstrate how complete her assignment.



Always focused. 4. Shannon Rogers is super focused programing and engraving cycle on a piston that was created into a shifter knob. "If you think it you can create it," she said. Top 5. Nicholas Lockwood is checking out and admiring his vice for the CNC machine.

Students who work on wiring and finalizing the last touches to complete their assignments need total concentration.

Matthew Langevin was preparing the pipe for this project. This project is where you have to bend the pipe in order to fit it in a booth.

John Fogarty takes apart the project and doing "special switching," which is where you can use the switches to be able to get the lights to work.

THE POWER OF ELECTRICITY

"I WANT TO BE AN ELECTRICIAN AND OWN MY OWN BUSINESS ONE DAY.

Electrical allows students a chance to go to job sites as a senior and be able to work at a real life work experience.

"Its fairly exciting. I like the way they show the different fields of electrical. We have gone from doing security to services," said Dylan Cloutier. He also shared his biggest accomplishment in this shop, which was wiring up a garage.

Students have a lot of expectations going into the electrical course. Matthew Langevin said, "I expected less; its a good program but it's very challenging".

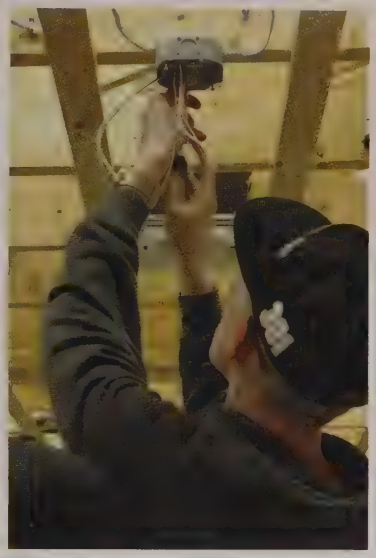
Nicole Curboy expressed her feelings of electrical and claimed "it was hard at first then got easier with the help of the teachers."

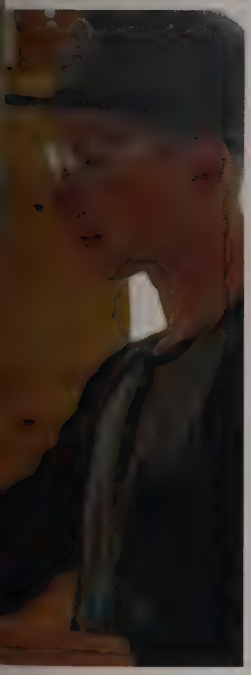
Students were asked what it's like to be one of the few girls enrolled in electrical. Alyson White said, "it can be difficult but in the end we're like a family". Students were also asked why they first joined. Matthew Langevin responded, "it is a good background to have in the fire service."

Electrical shop gives students a chance to learn their profession at an earlier age. Daniel Jackson-Brennan claimed, "It gives me a head start to pursue a career," leading him to his road to success along with all the other students in electrical.

Using the mock house and electrical boards inside the school students in electrical are able to practice professional wiring skills under the supervision of their teachers.

Alyson White is wiring a box as a three-way switch.
Daniel Jackson-Brennan is wiring up a light for a house built in the shop.





Nathan Boiteau wires a box in order to get electricity though. In this picture, he is screwing the box on, finishing his final project.

Sometimes students get out of the classroom and do some work on the building itself. Electrical students know how the building is wired and what to do if something goes wrong.

CONSTRUCTING THE FUTURE NOW

Students in carpentry get the chance to go out to different job sites and get the experiences of real life work. Seniors go from job to job, expanding their knowledge day by day.

Bailey Vitello, a senior, is a carpentry student who very dedicated to his job. He works hard on all his projects and completes them perfectly. The carpentry teacher, Mr. Timothy Seguin, said, "if any job needs to be done, I ask if he can do it, and the job would be done by the following day. He is a very hard worker and I am a very proud teacher."

Together, the carpentry students work together as a team, and leave the job sites like a family.

> "WE LEARN HOW TO BE SAFE AND MAKE JUST ABOUT ANYTHING.

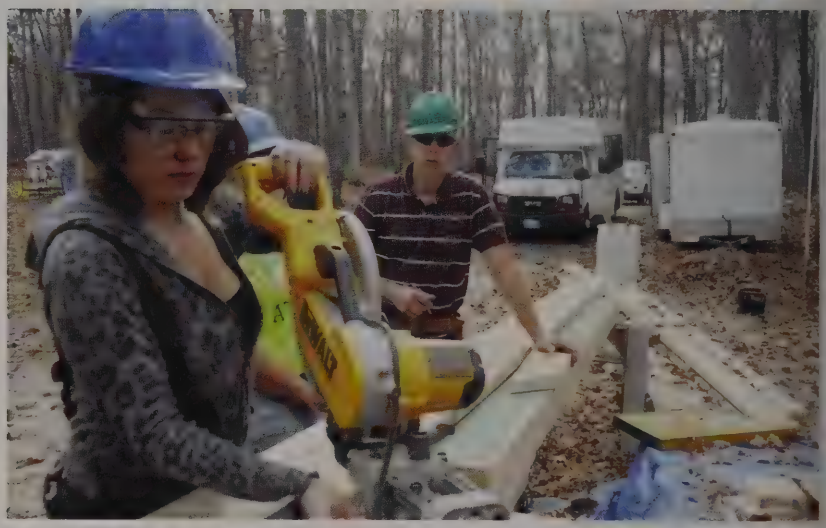
Sizing up the situation. Mr. Timothy Seguin oversees the next stage of the project at the carpentry job site.



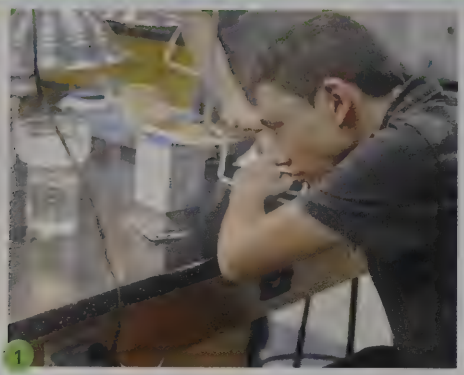
Measure twice, cut once. Judith Blanchard measures and cuts of a specific piece needed and assisted by her instructor.

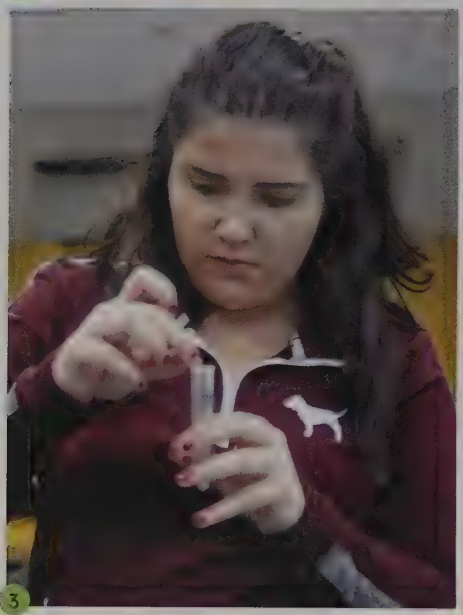
Power it up! Krystina Nieves, a senior, is plugging in the power cables in order to get power and use their machine.

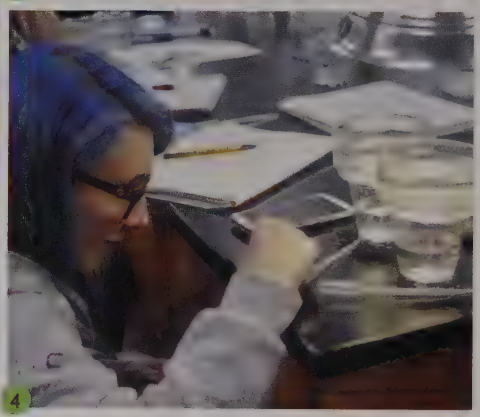
Cut it off! Bailey Vitello, a senior is a hear worker who enjoys carpentry. He always completes his task and in this picture he was taking out the border to complete another assignment. Great job!

Hard at work! Students work together in carpentry to complete their assignments. Krystina Nieves and Judith Blanchard are the only two female students, and they work very hard in their shop and aim for success.

AP BIOLOGY







The Process of Photosynthesis. 1. Andrew Umanzor times a lab, patiently awaiting the results. 2. Rachel Mersfelder carefully analyzes the leaf inside her test tube. 3. Emma Jacque precisely mixes the ingredients in the test tube of her lab. 4. Mandy Koska compares two different containers of liquid.

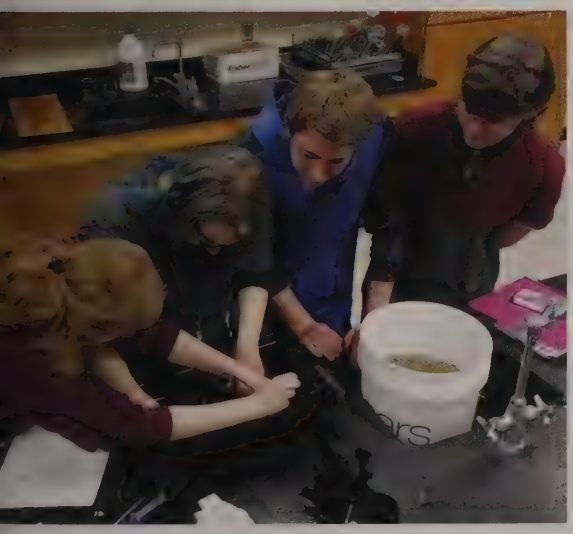
"YOU LEARN MORE THAN BIOLOGY; YOU LEARN ABOUT LIFE.

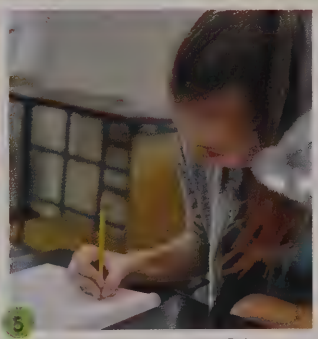
LUKE GERRISH, JUNIOR

Carcass dissection. In Mr. Jefferson's anatomy and physiology class, students learn to dissect animals of all sorts, from turkey legs and heads to beavers and deer ... not to mention coyotes! "Anything you could think of, like no joke. The coyote was still frozen and he tried to dissect it; he had it in his freezer for a year, and it still had ice on it," said senior Azlynn Prunier. Aside from coyotes, the class also dissected 20 deer heads brought in by Abby LaFountain. "I was driving to school with 20 deer heads and it was in the winter, but I couldn't turn the heat on, or it would smell like dead carcasses."

Examination 1. Sophomore Ryan Zahr studies the results of the photosynthesis lab. 2. Senior Erin Butts examines the leg of the frozen coyote. 3 Junior Julianna Berube attaches a leaf to metal clamps, finishing off her photosynthesis experiment.

IN THE SCIENCE ZONE





Doing the math. 4. Juniors Julianna Berube, Mandy Koska, Hagan Schutz, and Josh Watts struggle to insert a leaf into their plastic tube in order to test water transpiration. 5. Junior Nicole Murray focuses on analyzing her previous lab results.

The science programs here at Tantasqua are wide ranging and interactive. Starting with physical science or biology, students can make their way up the science ladder and eventually partake in rigorous classes like AP chemistry or physics. New science classes such as marine ecology have recently been added to the curriculum, making for an even broader area of study. The labs spaced throughout the second floor make for a great hands-on place to experiment, while the trails scattered throughout the woods enable students to engage with the environment around them. The Tantasqua campus makes for a great learning environment, both inside and outside the classroom.

NEWS FLASH: MEDIA & MORE

Students in Mr. Steve Tieri's media and Tantasqua Weekly News classes work hard to present a wide variety of weekly newscasting, comedic skits, and educational segments for all people in the community. TWN is shown on local television as well as in advisory. Students also work on segments to show what different classes are like in the school and words of the week. Media students focus more on recreating movie scenes, creating commercials and getting comfortable with the camera and equipment. The class always has very good reviews and is a great class to express your love of film making!

"TWN GAVE ME THE CHANCE TO INTERACT WITH PEOPLE I NEVER KNEW BEFORE.

Movie scenes. Senior Alyssa Raymond works with her group to recreate a dramatic scene from The Breakfast Club

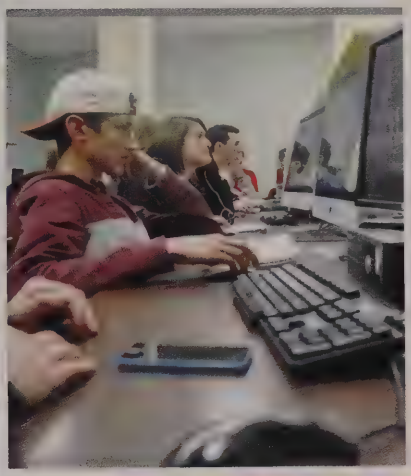
Reporting Live. Seniors Zachary Caldwell, Oscar Appleton, and Sabina Prennis all work to report to the school the weekly newscast. This informs students and the community about upcoming events and certain deadlines. "We all alternate our jobs for the week, which makes it different and fun!" says senior Oscar Appleton.

Snapping the Shot. Senior cameraman Samuel Knox measure the head room before hitting record for this spoof ESPN skit acted out by senior Olivia Curtin. "This class is awesome because it gives me the opportunity to use cameras that I normally wouldn't outside of the classroom," said Sam.

Natural Habitat. Juniors Meghan Edwards and Jordan Krans direct the actors and actresses by reminding them of their lines and stage directions while working in the senior parking lot.

Focused. Senior Samuel Knox strikes a serious stance as he performs under the pressure of a live camera.

More than just onstage. Students work hard for the majority of the class period, editing the endless minutes of film. Mr. Tieri stands close by to assist and answer any questions about the expensive programs used to edit and cut projects. "Editing is a long process but is fun when you get to see all your team's hard work come together in one final project. Bloopers are the best part, too!" said senior Jessica Bodish. At the end of the semester students receive CDs of all their finished products they have finished throughout the entire semester to keep.



CLOSE ENCOUNTERS with literatur

With any class, there's always a chance you'll spend 80 minutes in your seat. Sometimes, though, a class like English will let you get out in the hallways to read, out to the patio to perform, or even to a bowling alley to challenge your teacher to a game! In classes like history and English, students often find innovative ways to collaborate, practice the skills they've learned, and enjoy a more dynamic learning experience. Of course, there's also all those essays to write, but the stories in the books and the stories of the classroom make the study of literature meaningful and fun.

Out of the classroom. 1. Alexandra Fish and Victoria Miles read Shakespeare at one of the window seats. 2. AP Language & Composition students Joshua Berthiaume, Emma Jacque, Kelsey Emrich, Marielle Dupre, and Joseph Bousquet were granted permission to go bowling after Marielle wrote a persuasive letter to Mr. Lucas. Ms. Holly St. Jean demolished hr students with her amazing bowling skills. 3. Students perform Shakespeare on the patio.

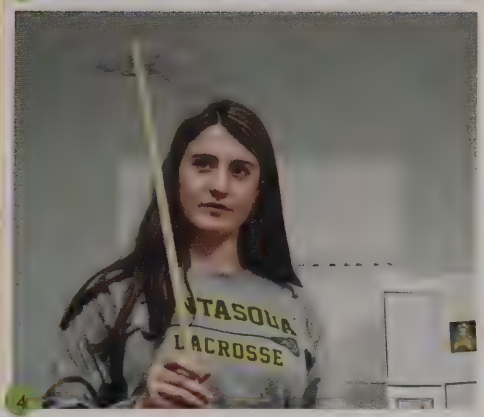
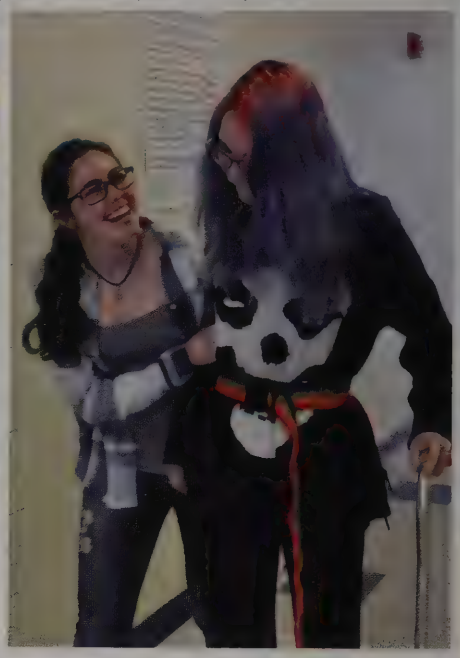
Waiting for Romeo. Monica Quianes recites the famous Juliet soliloquy for her Literature and Composition I class. "The longer the soliloquy got, the harder it was to memorize, so the ending was the most difficult" she said. "It was a bright day and it felt weird staring up there instead of looking at people."



Reading and writing lead to ... acting? 1. Kevin Riel collaborates on a project in his Literature and Composition II class. 2 Madison Flandreau hides behind a copy of Shakespeare, revealing a hidden iPhone. 3. "I saw costumes, and there was no way to stop me from putting them on. I like acting," said Liam Metz. 4. Natalie Main holds up a prop as part of her presentation.

In the classroom. 4. Emma Boland, Austin Buckner, Jordan Choquette, and Caitlyn Waddell collaborate on an AP Literature class assignment. 5. Amanda Burns and Kaylee Olander read a section of "Fences."

PRACTICING WITH SUPPORT DEVICES April Bradway, Charlotte Smith, Samantha Lowell, and Harley Rose practice using walkers and canes in the hallway near the Allied Health room. It's important for students in Allied Health to understand the experiences their patients may have.



FROM BOOKS TO PRACTICE

"AT THE BEGINNING, YOU DO A LOT OF BOOK WORK. I CAN'T WAIT FOR CLINICAL.

Students in the Allied Health program learn an important skill: how to administer health care to people who really need it.

Especially at the beginning of the program students spend a lot of time hitting the books, but by the time they reach their junior year, allied health students can do clinical work. This means that they can take different courses at a nursing home or hospital and actually apply the skills they acquired with infection control ethical and legal issues, communication skills, environmental safety, mental illness, nutritional needs, and death and dying.

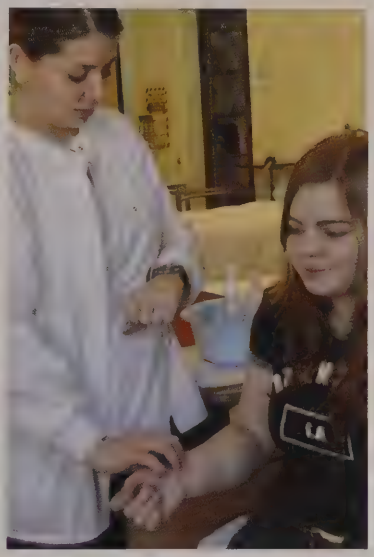
One very significant benefit students have after taking the course is the experience of having worked with actual patients. Students have the additional privilege for leaving the building for part of their day and actually practice the work they plan to do once they start their careers.

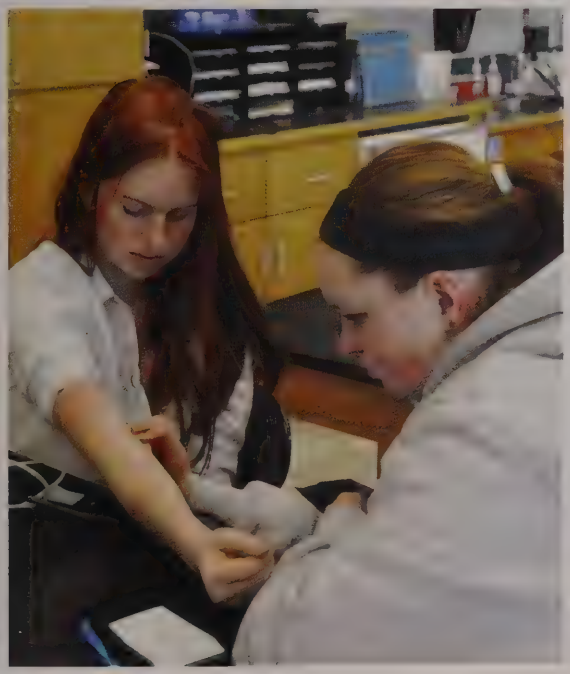
Not all students, of course, have the same plans. Some, like freshman Monica Quianes, want to take the skills into the veterinary field and care for animals. Some want to work with mental health patients. Whatever their future plans, the students of Allied Health will be ready for success.

Technology Matters. Gwenevier Riendeau practices using a piece of technology that will measure the pulse in her finger.

Dueling stethoscopes. Micah Laird observes as Chloe O'Shaughnessy takes his blood pressure.

Checking the pulsebeat. Sierra Rose learns what it feels like to take and time a pulse.





Practice makes perfect. Cameron Goodney, Kyla Lamothe, and Shelby McMillan spend their health class learning how to effectively use the stethoscope.

Working together. Adriana Prue and Amanda Snyder put into practice what they've learned in the classroom.

FROM SCREEN TO LIFE

1. Senior Rylie Howe is working on her final project, which is design and create a hair salon. "I hope to have my salon actually built one day; it's my dream job," she said. She likes that CAD gave her the opportunity to be able to learn and design the software.

2. Senior Amanda Sanders is showing her vet project to retiring teacher Mr. Labelle. "I honestly couldn't imagine any other teacher teaching this class better than him. It's rough seeing one of my favorite teachers retiring, but its nice that I'll be graduating at the same time," she said.

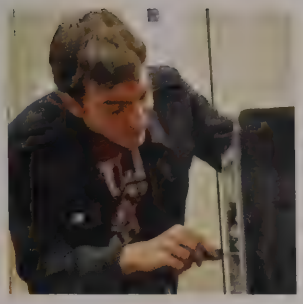
In our modern world, students spend time in front of all kinds of screens, from iPods and iPads to laptops and desktops. However, while most screen time is devoted to Snapcat, Twitter, or Facebook, some students know how to use computer technology to create objects out of ideas that will exist in the real, three-dimensional world.

Students in CAD, for example, use computers to assist with designing buildings of every kind, combining creativity, technology, and architecture. Some students even get to see their creations built, so the ideas on the screen take shape before them.

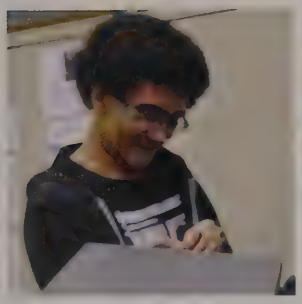
Students in computer technology classes, meanwhile, learn how to repair all manner of computer problems, preparing them for meaningful and in-demand careers once they have graduated from high school. Either way, students in these programs will succeed!

MAKING IT MATTER IN COMPUTER TECH

Joseph Dick figures out what is wrong with the motherboard. "We do a lot of hands on repairs, and we also help people outside of our shop with their computer problems too," he said.



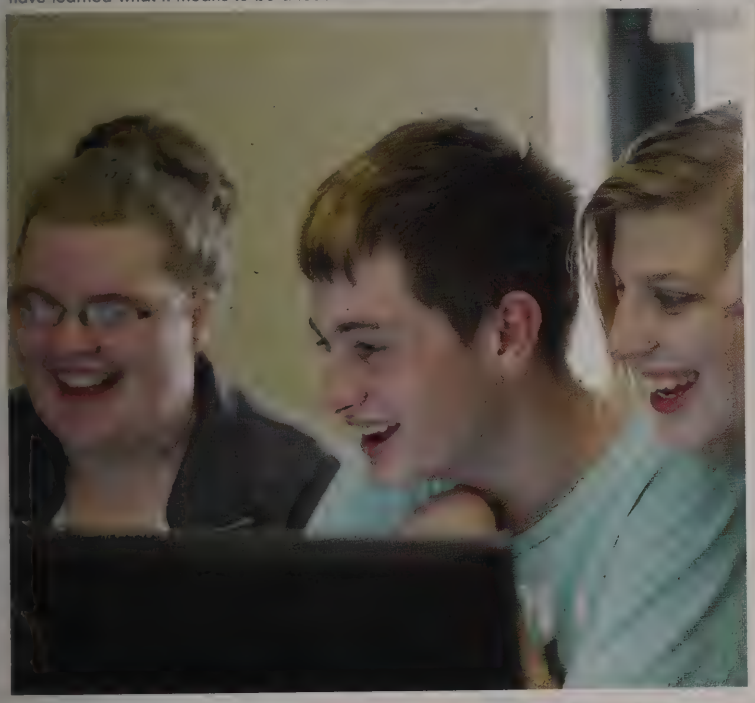
Wyatt Burtt is taking out the mother board to diagnosis it. "I'm really going to miss the friends i have made in this shop, and seeing them everyday," he said.

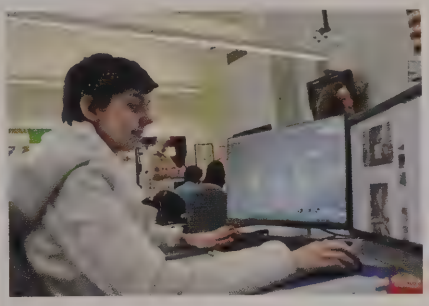


Robert Hill is having trouble opening a laptop that was sent down to be examined. "I love the relaxed atmosphere of the shop; we all get along, which is the best part," he said.

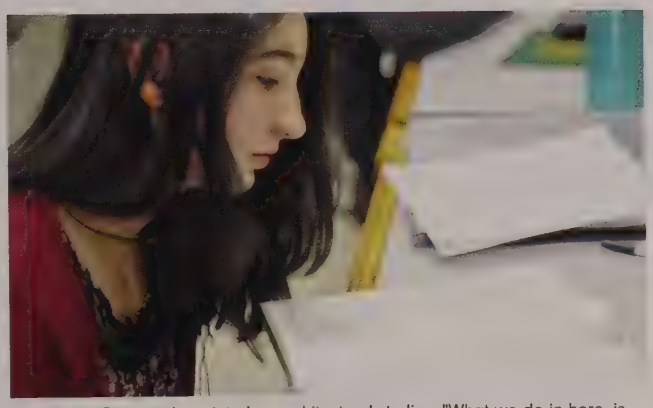
Brady Parent is flashing CMIS to reboot RAM. "I chose and stuck with computer tech because it opens a lot of opportunities in the field once I graduate," he said.

Senior Brytni Simmons laughs along with her good friends. "I joined CAD to help prepare me for my future career in architecture. I have learned not only about architecture, but I have learned what it means to be a leader thanks to this class and Skills USA," she said.





Senior student Mikhaela Kryger is working on an animation project. She describes CAD as being "a very open environment." "There's a lot of hands on problem solving," she said. "The seniors right now are working on a greenhouse design. We do a lot of projects with people in surrounding areas."



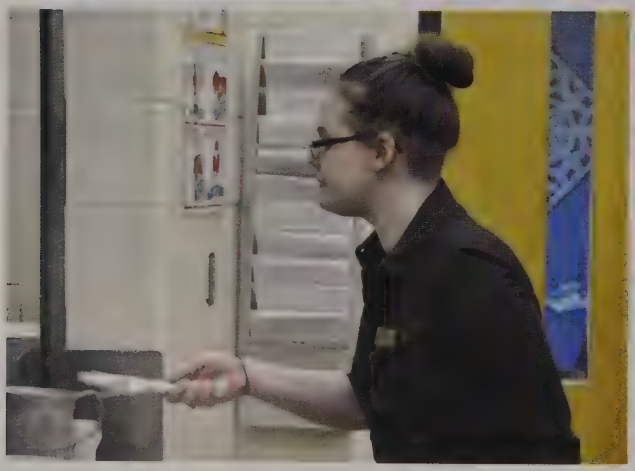
Samantha Putis, is deep into her architectural studies. "What we do in here, is really independent," she said. "At the moment, Wyatt Howe and I are working on a blueprint for a house that we'll put onto the computer later."

Senior Sean Jones has had a very busy year for his last year in CAD. "I worked on an outside job, the radio station in Brookfield," he explained. It was a project that took a lot of time, hard work, and commitment. "We transformed this space that they had into a studio space. It was a surreal experience to a have a project that is actually going to be used."

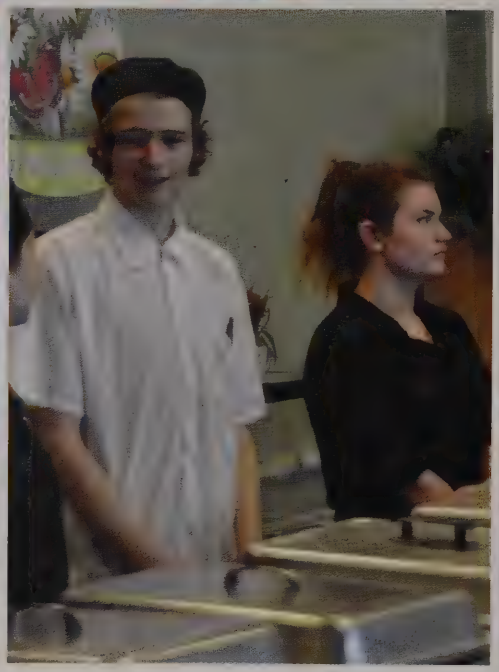
The three amigos of CAD are McHale Burgess, Andrew Campiglio, and Ethan May, who are all working on designing a new building. "When we're not designing houses or bulidings, we're building up fire fantasy leagues," Andrew said.

For a buffet-style meal, students scoop out delicious lunch options to help customers assemble a delicious plate of food. Jacob Glass and Emily Monroe are at the ready.

Sometimes customers need help deciding what's good to eat, and hospitality students are right there to recommend the best lunch option.

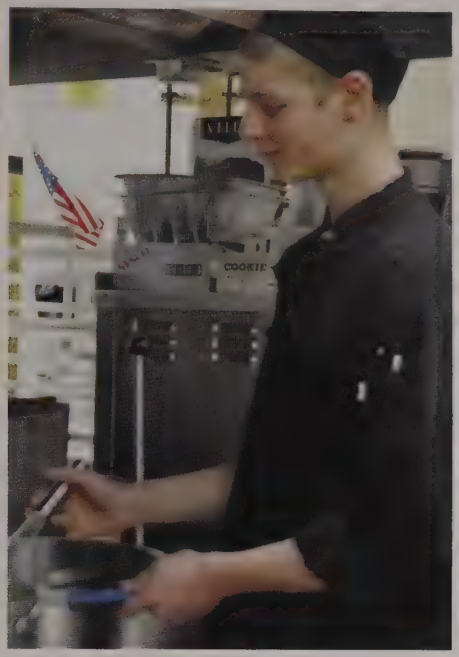


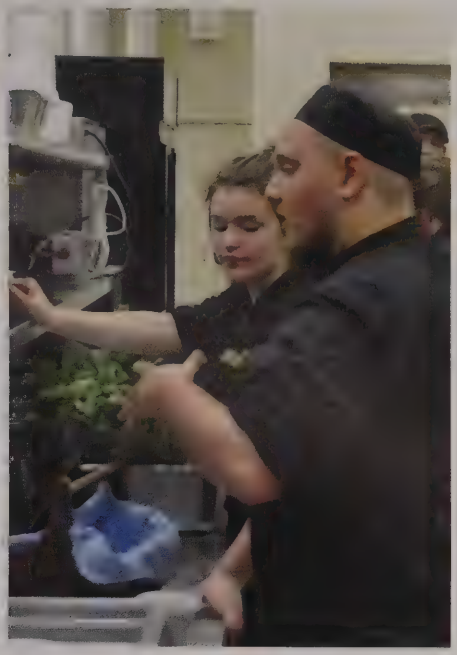
Emma Warren takes out the utensils she will need for the patrons coming into the Cornerstone Cafe.



Harrison Tiscione and Leah Corriveau wait to help customers with their meals.

Cooks in the kitchen. Riley Feeney, Leah Corriveau, and many other culinary students make use of the professional chef's kitchen to perpare a tasty lunch for the Cornerstone Cafe. When the food is ready, hospitality students will serve it to the patrons outside.





COOKING UP AN EDUCATION

One of the wonderful things about the technology program at Tantasqua is that students spend so much time actually doing the things they've studied about. This idea takes dramatic action at The Cornerstone Cafe, a student-run restaurant where teachers and members of the community come to enjoy a delicious lunch every week.

From planning the menu to preparing the food, students put a lot of time into each Cornerstone experience. Depending on the season, the available ingredients, and the whims of the students and culinary teachers, the Cornerstone Cafe offers a variety of delicious lunch options.

But it's not just about the food. It's also about service. That's why students in the hospitality program are there every step of the way, setting and clearing tables, delivering lunches to teachers in the building, and, of course, taking orders from customers at the dining tables.

With such a professional atmosphere, great service, and fantastic food, no wonder the Cornerstone Cafe has been such a success for so many years. If only students could choose to have lunch there themselves!

"I THINK IT'S AMAZING THAT STUDENTS BASICALLY RUN THEIR OWN RESTAURANT.

State of the art technology helps students make the very best meals.

SHATTER THE RECORD

The girls' soccer athletes expected an amazing season following a summer of preparation and hard work. They were eager to get onto the field and begin the road to success. The Tantasqua girl's soccer team left the season with a record of 14-5-1: the best record that girls soccer has seen in Tantasqua history. The team, led by head coach Matthew Rickson, worked hard every day to achieve such an aspiring accomplishment. The team made their way to the semi-finals in districts, which is also the farthest that girl's soccer has made it to in post season play. Junior Captain Camie Hall said, "Our best win was our first district game against Burncoat, because we made it to the semi-finals after." Following the team's loss to Algonquin, "We were just so proud of how far we got and we played our game well," she announced with a smile.

SEASON SCOREBOARD

Defensive Saves

Autumn Vadenais charges for the ball to beat the Grafton offensive player and eliminate the opportunity for a goal.

Kelsey Emrich shows her defensive skills as a goalie when she reaches up to punch a shot off frame and keep the Warriors on track. She ends the season with 120 saves!

Transitioning the Ball
Captain Camie Hall sends the ball up the field from a defensive zone to the offensive players ready to attack.

1, 2, 3... Go Warriors!
During a quick pep talk right before the game, Coach Rickson huddles his team together to encourage motivation and determination to succeed!

Offensive Moves
Captain Shariette LaPorte makes an offensive move toward goal. "It was really cool for us to break the schools record because it reflects the team we were; we always had each other's backs especially against opponents," she said with a laugh.

Boxing Out
Ginger Lucas does a great job keeping her opponent off the ball and burning past her as she looks to keep possession and make her way up the field.

Passing it to Semi-Finals

Tantasqua girl's soccer ended their first district game against Burncoat victoriously with a score of 4-0, putting them through to the semi-finals against Algonquin. The game ended with a loss, but senior Captain Emma Boland responded to this saying, "We wanted to win, yes, every game, but that wasn't who we were as a team. We were a really fun group of girls who loved to play soccer."

Above is Abigail Befford, looking up the field for her options to make either a quick move past an opponent to keep possession, or find the open teammate for an offensive look toward goal.

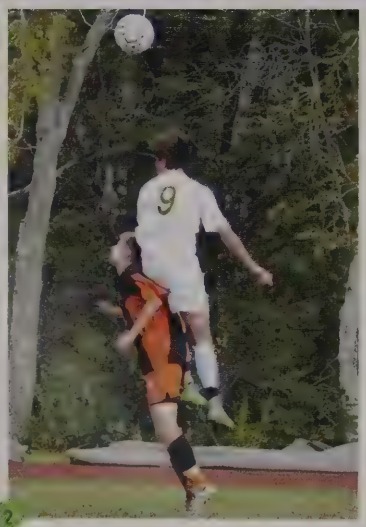
TIME FOR A COMEBACK

Get Your Head in the Game
1. The Warrior starting squad gets excited before their home game against David Prouty. "Before the game our mind set is 'We're going to kill them," said the team.
2. Dylan Cave leaps above the opposition while challenging for the ball. Throughout the season, Cave embraced the physical nature of the game, tackling harder and jumping higher than the opposition, propelling the Warriors to countless victories.



Coming off of their cursed 2014-2015 season, the Warriors knew it was time for a change. Losing nine seniors after last season, they diversified their roster, giving them the change they needed to reach success during the 2015-2016 season.

This year's season was characterized by comradeship. Before every game the team would warm up together, giving each player a chance to bond with fellow teammates. "The most exciting part of the pregame warmup is hanging out with the team," said Hunter Ramsland. Matthew Via fondly recalled a bonding activity in which the team sat on the bleachers, with each person coming up with something nice to say about the person next to them. Bonding as a team was the key element of fruitful season.

"We played for each other" said Matthew Via, and that is why the Warriors had an outstanding 16-2-1 record this year.

THE CALM BEFORE THE STORM

PLAYING FOR KEEPS
Senior Jesse Giullette practices keeping tough shots out of the net before the game. "I like being the goalie," Giullette said, "I like the pressure of being the backbone of the defense."

POWERHOUSE
Junior Colton Pellicane takes a shot during the team's warmup before their game. Before warming up it is important to stretch. "Stretch before you shoot," said Pellicane.

PREGAME JITTERS
Hunter Ramsland, a freshman, loosens up before getting ready to "win tackles and make passes" to help his team to victory.

Fancy Footwork
Senior captain Cullen McCarthy works on finessing the ball in midair. Prior to each game, the Warriors worked on an array of skills, including footwork.

Rushing to Victory Sophomore Brian Mayberry fights his way to the ball against David Prouty. "That's my number one favorite thing, playing physical" said Mayberry.

Settle Down
Henry Valcour dances to settle an incoming pass. Junior Henry Valcour used his speed to his advantage throughout the season, driving the ball down the field game after game in the Warriors's comeback season.

THE WILL TO WIN

After an exhausting 3 day double session tryout, the field hockey warriors knew they were ready to take on the season, and hopeful to win in the semifinals. They worked hard before the season had even started, meeting at the school on hot summer days, and running all types of drills. Senior Lauren McGrath said, "It was such a surprise to be as successful as we were after losing so many seniors, and it was a great way to end the season." Field hockey plays a large role in the lives of players which allows them to become closer, and stronger as a team. Senior captain Erin Butts said, "Being a captain allowed me to bond with all my teammates, and really become a family." The warriors ended up making it to the semifinals but losing to Quabbin finishing the season with an examplary record.

DEFENSE!
Junior Emily Morin drops her stick in preparation to play some tough defense. Emily's intensity and aggressive nature got the Warriors far in the season.

"THE RING"
Senior captain Olivia Curtin and senior Sonia Dunn get low and assemble the infamous "ring" on a Quabog free hit. Hopefully the Warriors block the hit and regain possession.

DO THE HUSTLE
Senior Jesse Fimian hustles to catch Quabog. Jesse was the only boy on the team and his speed and commitment to the Warriors kept them motivated and determined.

GET BACK!
Senior athlete Sonia Dunn hurries back to help her defense hold off Quabog. As a mid, Sonia uses her speed and stamina to keep moving.

FORE!
INSIGHT INTO GOLF

Golf may be known as an individual sport, but not for the Warriors. The boys on the golf team work together and were very supportive of each other this season.

The team underwent a tremendous season including defeating division one state runners-up BC High School, a nail biting game that was tied after the traditional six scores. Moving on to the next round, "we were the underdogs, and it was nice to show people that we were up there with one of the best teams in Massachusetts," said senior captain Griffin Brooks.

"The team started strong in the beginning of the season and we all knew each other, and we knew we were going to be good. We worked hard and ended up as a very good team," said junior Joshua Berthiaume. This statement rings true when you look at their final record of 16-4.

PREP HARD, PLAY HARD

The Warriors had an outstanding start to the regular season, winning the first 4 consecutive games. With the hard work of the coaching staff, the team was in the weight room and on the field before the season even took off. "It was a grueling 8 week program that got us prepared for the season that lied ahead of us", said senior captain Oscar Appleton. Throughout the summer, the team would get to the school at 6:30 in the morning to endure plyos and conditioning for the upcoming season. After Thursday walk-throughs, the team would meet up at the local Chinese restaurant. "We started doing more things together, building more friendships that built a trust on the field," said senior captain Jordan Choquette. Although the second half of the season the team went 2-5, the team has high hopes for the next season.

SERVES AND SPIKES

Sophmore athlete Lily Kent said that the girls struggled greatly throughout the season. "I feel like because we were all so young and didn't have much experience playing with each other, we did amazing individually but our work as a team wasn't the best," she said. One huge advantage they had was that they played most of the same teams they had previously played and they knew how all the teams played and worked together. Because the Warriors were so new, though, their opponents couldn't figure them out.

The volleyball players kicked off their 2015-2016 season with a brand new team. Losing almost the entire varsity team and having the junior varsity coach take on a harder role of varsity head coach, the team had a fresh start. However, it wasnt easy for the girls to move up from JV to varsity, having no experience at the varsity level.

"Working hard and making it to the first round of districts made all the long and hard practices worth it," said junior Samantha Gleason.

The team's biggest rival was Shepherd Hill. The girls lost to the Hill 0-3 all three times that they faced them this season. Another one of the team's biggest rivals was Grafton. With all their experience, however, the girls and their coach learned all of Grafton's weaknesses and came back on top for the victory. It was a great moment for the team and indicated that they're ready to win again.

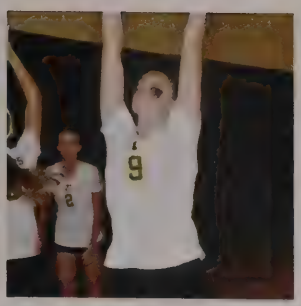
Junior Samantha Gleason said that "We had an advantage with Sam Beaudry as our coach because she knew us all from previous years."



It's go time!
Sophomore Lily Kent said that the season took a lot of preparation getting ready to play together as a team.

We Appreciate It
Amanda Burns said that "Our coach helped all of us girls get involved with the community and take part in extra activities besides just volleyball."

Heads up
The girls had a great, hard working season together. Junior Marielle Dupre said, "we all got along very well and knew each other even outside of volleyball."

Putting in the work
Junior Samantha Gleason that the girls worked extremely hard to get to where they had gotten. "It felt great to start off the season with a 3-0 win against the Southbridge Pioneers."

A Fresh Start
Freshman Morgan Mascolo says that " I wanted a new start in high school, so what a better way than to start a new sport that I knew I would enjoy." Volleyball was a lot harder than Morgan thought it was going to be. "Overall, volleyball changed my attitude towards high school and was a great learning experience," she said.

CHEERING THROUGH EVERY SEASON

The cheerleaders started off the beginning of their season by going to a camp in the summer. In the camp, they learned new stunting techniques, mastered tumbling that they didn't have before, and gained new skills all around. During the football season, they made it to every home and away game, rain or shine. The cheer team practiced every day in preparation for their competition that took place in November. This year's varsity team advanced all the way to states, which is a huge accomplishment. Talking about the football season, senior Brianna Pincince-McLeish said, "This year started out a little rocky, but throughout the season we became one big family, and getting to go to states my senior year was a great opportunity. I'm glad I competed and stayed with it all four years." After states ended, most of the same girls came back for basketball season, another great season for our cheerleaders. Our varsity team made it to states once again and scored 6th place. Overall, it was a great year.

GOING
THE DISTANCE

During the summer months, while many students are relaxing on the beach or sleeping in late, Tantasqua's famed distance runners are training. They carefully run their training programs so they can do what they do best in the fall: dominate cross-country competition. The girls' cross-country team had an especially winning season, and all around, both boy and girl warriors set personal bests while they built up their speed and endurance over the course of the season. With the stamina and determination to win, they trounced rivals like Bartlett and Oxford and Southbridge. Although spectators couldn't pack a stadium to cheer them on, the running Warriors did the school proud for year another cross-country season of competition, distance, and speed.

ALL THE WAY TO STATES

When the basketball season began, the boys had a feeling that they might make it to the state championship. After all, they had been playing together for five or six years. They knew each other well both on and off the court and could anticipate each other's plays. There was a tough game against St. Peter-Mary and a painful loss to Bartlett, but the boys sailed through the season (and defeated Bartlett later at their home court). Finally, after breezing through SWCL, they defeated Lincoln-Sudbury and Pittsfield to face Concord-Carlisle in the semifinal. Although the boys were ahead going into halftime, Concord rallied back and had a run that the Warriors could not come back from. Still, the boys provided an amazing season for fans, and the close bond of the teammates made their journey one they'll always remember.

Erick Laboy gave a lot of energy and was a hustle player, always diving on the floor and going hard in ways not everyone could.

Bennett Durand-Paradis was a "pretty good shooter" according to teammates, who depended on him in crucial game moments.

According to captain Griffin Brooks ,"We were an underdog team, so making it as far as we did really made a statement for our school."

Coach O'Neill analyzes the in-game situation and plans the plays and strategy for the quarter.

John Howland was the team captain Adam Phillips was a starting guard and one of the best shooters on the team.

Michael Frio played guard and was a really good shooter and ball handler, a great all around athlete the team could always depend on.

PLAYING WITH A CLEAR HEAD

Coach always gave a pre-game talk and motivated the players to make a difference out on the court.

Although they knew they would go far this season, many considered the boys to be underdogs. The bond they made helped them go the distance to the state championships.

GIRLS BASKETBALL
2016 WARRIORS

The girls' basketball team had tremendous success this season finishing with a record of 15 wins and 6 losses. This team was led by great captains such as Gabriella Roberts, Emma Boland, and Elizabeth Adams. With some great role players, the Warriors had an inspiring season and plan to go on to play in the district tournament this year! The Warriors also went on to have two 5 game win streaks this season, and that alone got them into the district tournament! Working together as a team and a family, they worked hard on their strategy and defeated some of their biggest rivals, making it all the way to the quarterfinals, where they fell to North Middlesex. Still, with a season every bit as good as the boys' team, the girls proved they have the true Warrior spirit.

INDOOR TRACK

If there's one true thing you can say about the indoor winter runners, it's this: they're fast. They boys had an undefeated season, the the girls came up short on only three meets. The fun and successful season was fed by the pent-up winter energy and sheer excitement for the sport. "I love my coach," said sophomore high jumper Victoria Kirkland, adding, "There really is never a dull moment, and with so many people around it's hard to get bored." With a plethora of kids who play spring and fall sports packing on to one team for the winter, meeting new friends isn't rare. Junior Cody Ridz had lots to say about the team, saying, "It was fun being undefeated all season. We're the top team in the league, so it's not bad. It's a little harder than outdoor track because of the dry air and high volume of people in such a small space, but I like indoor better." Performing so well last season undoubtedly gave the team the confidence boost they needed to pull through this Winter with no losses. Undefeated or not, indoor track is a spirited way to warm up in the cold months.

This was a huge accomplishment for the team and for the girls individually. Four of the boys made it there as well. Sarah Laflamme and senior captain Alex Watson both made it all the way to states and placed extremely well. According to Sarah, she loved being team captain and was proud of how the season went. "I am really proud of my team and how far we made it. Good luck to the team next year in their season as well!" she said.

SERVIN'
UP A SEASON OF SUCCESS

The Boys' tennis team had an incredible season in 2016. Led by captains Curt Allen, Gene Munnis, and Jared Worth, the team went 14-4 in the regular season. "Even though most people think tennis is an individual sport, we have to work together as a team to improve every day," said junior Noah Scott. "I love just being out there hitting balls and getting better with my friends. We work extremely hard, and win or lose we're all proud to be teammates," said Scott. The team was plagued with injuries throughout the year, giving nearly everyone on the team an opportunity to play in a varsity match. With every injury, a member of the team filled the gap, leaving their heart and soul out on the court. "We have a really deep team this year," Coach Hamparian stated. The deep roster allowed the team to reach the quarterfinals in districts. Great job boys!

SEASON SCOREBOARD

VOLLEY UNDER PRESSURE
Curt Allen isn't afraid to rush the net! He's in perfect position to volley the ball away for a point.

SKYWARD BOUND
Junior doubles player Noah Scott lifts off the ground in an attempt to hit a forehand during the pre-match warmup. "I like to hit with a lot of topspin, so I have to really work on my form when I hit," said Scott.

ALL SMILES, ALL THE TIME
Freshman Luke Hall smiles as he warms up. He brought a positive attitude with him when he joined the team, boosting team morale throughout the year, helping to create a strong team bond.

CONCENTRATION IS KEY
Michael Herrmann concentrates as he hits through a volley in the pre-match warmup. Every day he hit volleys at the net to improve his shotmaking.

BACKHAND THAT!
Doubles player Samuel Currier practices his backhand before game time. His solid groundstrokes propelled second doubles to countless victories throughout the 2016 season.

SKYBALL SLAMS
James Damon tracks down a ball in midair to hit an overhead shot. A crucial shot for any tennis player, overhead shots are very difficult to return. Damon slammed overheads to win many exhibition matches.

HITTING THAT SHOT

As with any skill, practice makes perfect. To begin every day on the court, the boys' tennis team hits a wide variety of shots, ranging from forehands to serves and volleys in order to get ready for the practice session or match ahead. Aaron Inthirath (bottom left) scoops a ball down low, hitting a forehand in perfect form. Such practice helped Inthirath hit well in every one of his matches.

COOL, CALM, COLLECTED
Gene Munnis casually fends off a ball directed at his chest. Quick reflexes are key to hitting body shots in tennis, and Munnis is a master. Even more important is a calm attitude. Remaining calm during an intense point can be the reason you win the match.

Get That Ball Away From Me!
Junior Andrew Umanzor takes a forehand to fend off an incoming shot. Throughout the year, Umanzor practiced hs groundstrokes to win more matches.

PLAYERS GALORE: A WAVE OF NEW GIRLS

The girls' tennis team acquired many new girls this year, replacing the many seniors they lost last year. Singles player Morgan Mascolo joined the team, jumping up to the number two position on the ladder. She used her talent to power through countless opponents in the 2016 season. The second doubles team, formed by Victoria Kirkland and Sarah Scott, both new to the team, brought in many wins for Tantasqua. After figuring out a successful strategy, the girls were able to combine their power and finesse, allowing them to beat many of their opponents. The team spirit was better than ever with senior captains Elise Hanks-Witaszek and Avery Trifone imparting their knowledge and positive attitude on every girl on the team. They contributed to an unforgettable girl's tennis season.

Freshman Morgan Mascolo prepares to hit a backhand in one of her matches. She jumped into the second singles position as a freshman, using all of her outside practice to better the Warrior's record.

POWER HITTER
Yiwen Zhang powers through a forehand. Playing on the team for several years, Zhang played at the first doubles position, using the skills she has practiced for years to play well all year.

SWINGIN' AND SMILIN'
New to the tennis team for her senior year, Heather Cho brought her positive attitude with her, boosting the morale of the team each and every day.

READY, SET, SWING
Doubles player Victoria Kirkland stares down a ball in preparation to strike it. Kirkland brought lots of power to the table while playing second doubles this season. Her ability to hit powerful shots allowed her and her doubles partner Sarah Scott to win many matches.

WORK HARD, PLAY HARD

Senior Elise Hanks-Witaszek was a major contributor to the girl's tennis team this season. She was the number one singles player, and the team rallied behind her to win many of their matches. As a captain, Elise shared her skills with the team during practices and supported every member of the team throughout the season. Her presence will surely be missed in the years to come.

DYNAMIC DUO
Senior captain Elise Hanks-Witaszek and Coach LaValle look on as the girl's finish their match. Each offers a new perspective on how to beat the rival team. Elise's knowledge as a captain contributed to many warrior tennis victories.

MOTIVATED to win

1. Michael Frio and Anthony Law are in postion for take control.

2. Michael Partlow is all smiles as he heads off the field in his trademark pink shoes.

This year's boys' lacrosse team felt especially motivated when they learned that their coach, Joseph Pedace, was fighting cancer. "Once we found that out, it was really good to come together as a team," explained Cody Robert. "We started winning a bunch of games, and we won against some of the best teams. We have very good potential for next year."

Because their coach has always been such a motivational figure to the boys (they consistently refer to his offbeat sense of humor), the team was happy to produce so many wins.

According to Benjamin Beaudry, "We played as a team and had a little bit of a tough time at the start, but we did good, came together and played as one."

As a relatively new sport at Tantasqua, the boys lacrosse team is already blazing their own Warrior trail, and can look forward to more good seasons.

WORKING TOGETHER TO WIN IT ALL

Zackary O'Brien, Cole France, Thomas Molnar, and Oscar Appleton each contribute their own unique set of skills to the team, but it's the chemistry they have working together that lets the boys' lacross become so successful.

The Warriors won't let the Hopedale offense make a move.

Cole France instigates a mock fight with another player. The boys like to joke around and keep the mood light and hopeful during a game.

VARSITY Roster: Oscar Appleton, Benjamin Beaudry, Cole France, Michael Frio, Benjamin Garrett, Jesse Guillette, Justin Guillette, Anthony Law, Samuel Matton, Jared Mills, THomas Muir, Zackary O'Brien, Cody Robert, Brandon Sears, Ethan Tytula, Austin Varney

Lady Lax
"WON'T BE BEAT!"

Throughout the whole season the warriors worked hard in their games. One of the best games that they had was against their rival Grafton. Early in the season the warriors played against Grafton and it did not go the way they had hoped. Losing 17-10 dampened their spirits temporarily, until Grace McHugh gave one of her legendary inspiring speeches. The girls hung onto this and the next time they played Grafton the story was very different. Although they lost 12-10, the Warriors still played an amazing game and were proud of their performance. Junior Cassie Arpin said, "Attack made some great plays and scored 10 goals against some of the hardest defense in the league." Her attitude was proud, as it should be. After all, the warriors had an amazing 2016 season.

STICK CHECK
Sophomore Rachel Hayden gets her team excited and ready to play by smiling and cheering as she runs through the stick check

WIN THE DRAW!
Senior captain Grace McHugh starts the game off with an exceptional draw, flawlessly flicking the ball back into her stick. Grace had a great season and came back strong after recovering from two torn ACLs. Grace inspired the girls to do their best and led her team to victory.

PRE-GAME
Senior Sharlette Laporte and Junior Chloe O'brien go all out in the pre-game warm ups. the girls do competive 3 vs 2 drills and rapid shooting to ensure they are ready to win.

HELPING A TEAM MATE OUT
Senior captain Samantha Muir helps her goalie Junior Chloe O'brien out by getting her helmet on. Chloe is an extremely talented goalie and has granted her team many wins.

LISTEN UP
Juniors Emily Morin and Cassandra Arpin listen to Coach Egan before getting back in the game. These pivotal forwards kept the warriors competitive with their many goals and assists.

WINDING UP
Senior Sharlette Laporte demonstrates excellent shooting form. Although Sharlette was primarily defense, her infamous left handed shot saved the warriors in several close games.

"Triple Threat"

Senior captains Kelly Austin, Samantha Muir, and Grace McHugh gather to talk with the ref and the opposing team captains. These girls lead their team with class and dedication. All of them worked hard always, and offered inspiration even in some of the most hopeless situations. Their leadership and hard work inspired the other players to work hard, and they will be greatly missed.

FOCUS
Senior captain Kelly Austin snags the ball from her goalie. Kelly was the only left handed player on the team and her left handed crease goal was a game saver in countless situations.

BASES LOADED

This year's softball team was a perfect example of the saying, "there is no I in team" This year's team quickly came together as a unit. If you ask any girl on the team, they would agree that her teammates felt more like family than fellow athletes.

The softball team had a successful season, winning the SWCL title for the second year in a row and making it into the district tournament.

The championship was not the only great part about this team. These girls came together and fought hard battles throughout the entire season. The team even mercied several teams.

Senior Hayley Worthington played her last season of high school softball. Hayley lead the team in the batting order and made amazing catches in center field.

The majority of the team was juniors, all whom performed stellar. The lone sophomore Sarah Harlinski came in clutch at second base, and hit some of the hardest balls. Freshmen Marie Stewart, Jillian Dunn, and Lindsey Zak made a great impact on the team as well. All three ladies made amazing plays in the field as well as clutch hits.

BATTER UP! GOING, GOING, GONE!

BOYD SMACKS FIRST VARSITY HIT
Eve Boyd steps up to the plate, filling in for the injured teammate to hit a line drive into the outfield.

JUNIOR CATCHER KENDRA CROUCHES BEHIND THE PLATE
Kendra Salviuolo dominates behind the plate, making runners think twice about stealing a base.

THE DYNAMIC DUO
Junior Abby LaFountain and freshman Jillian Dunn slap gloves in the circle. Abby explains, "Jill never fails to have my back out there in the field."

GET DOWN!
Head Coach Phill Derosche yells towards Jillian Dunn to get down as she sprints from second to third on a pass ball behind the plate.

WORK HARD, PLAY DIRTY. Senior Hayley Worthington was one of the fastest runners on the team this year. Here she is sliding in to second base after taking off to steal second base.

Strike Three!
Junior Abby LaFountain, Tantasqua's ace pitcher, is in mid pitch. Freshman Jillian Dunn is about to get down in fielding position as she waits to see whether the batter makes contact.

VARSITY SOFTBALL Row 1: Eve Boyd, Jillian Dunn, Marie Stewart, Abby LaFountain, Hayley Worthington, Sarah Harlinski, Kendra Salviuolo Row 2: Coach Amanda Hawk, Alixandra Smichinski, Kimberly Friedland, Lindsey Zak, Meghan Simoneau,Abigail Stansky, Kelsey Emrich, Emily Blanchard, Gwenevier Riendeau, Coach Phil Derosche

Emily Blanchard watches the pitch and is ready to catch the ball and get the opponent out. In situations like this, Blanchard excels.

TAKE ME OUT to the ball game

Samuel Knox finishes his swing and gets ready to rush to first base.

Connor McCaffrey winds up and delivers a killer pitch.

The Warrior's baseball team started out the season in a slump. However, as the season went on, the team became much stronger.

A few players stepped up, such as lone catcher Noah Berthiaume and right fielder Anthony Pupillo.

Noah was the only catcher for the team, while Anthony has to step up after senior pitcher Griffin Brooks injured his arm. The team ended strong. They came in second place for SWCL, and they made it into districts. The team travelled to Wachusett to play in the post season. Unfortunately, they came just shy of a win; however, they ended the season strong.

Of course, the best part of playing baseball in the spring is the pleasure of participating in a sport that's a true American past time. As they did their best, the boys did the school proud and set themselves up for another successful season next spring, when they suit up again.

IT'S TIME TO... PLAY BALL!

STRIKE THREE
Noah Berthiaume crouches into his catcher's stance while waiting for the ball to snap into the glove.

FIELDING GURU
Junior Adam Letendre performs superb fielding position.

ThROWING DOWN
Nathan Ison fires from the outfield.

THEY CALL HIM THE WALL!
Franklin Tremblay gets down on one knee to keep the throw from getting by him.

Jordan Choquette takes the mound. Number 8 puts his best effort into helping bring his team to victory.

Senior athlete Jordan Choquette swings for the fences and smacks the ball right on the sweet spot of the bat. Jordan hit his first high school career homerun this season.

Franklin Tremblay slams the ball to the outfield and scores another base hit for the team.

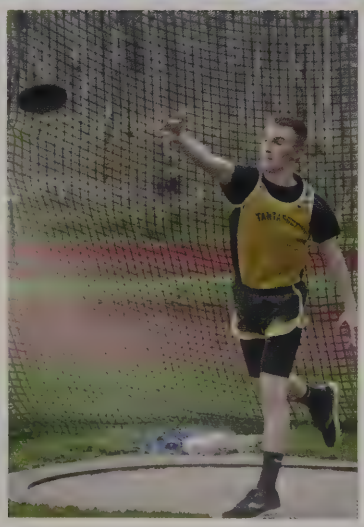
WINNING on track & fiel

John Howland somehow manages to get himself gracefully over the high jump.



Captain Jesse Fimian throws the discus! Fimian, a senior, was the captain for the 2016 track and field team. He was set on top of the team. Jesse set the best triple jump record for the school.

Track might be one of the least understood sports for those who don't participate. "We don't get a lot of attention, but we're still good," said Cody Ridz.

Track is difficult because of all the running, which requires students to become good sprinters, mid-distance runners, and long-distance runners. This means students need develop to speed and stamina.

The track team also had to adjust to a new coach, who had been an assistant in previous years. Under his direction, athletes tried to work hard and prove that their own efforts contributed to their success.

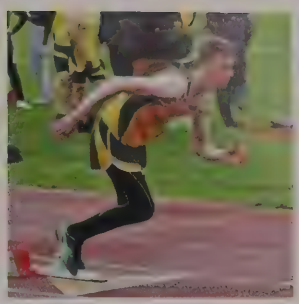
Although the athletes lost more meets than usual, they still had a good season, set records, and made it to states.

The track athletes hoped to crush their biggest rival of the season, Quabog, but came up short, losing the meet by just two points. Nevertheless, it was a lot of fun for the athletes to support each other through the season.

FIELD EVENTS WITH BOYS TRACK AND FIELD

Matt Ellis takes the long jump for boys' track and field event.

Dyland Arsenault (left) and Cody Ridz (right) take a full push on shotput for their 2016 season. "This is what I was best at and probably my favorite thing in track," said Cody Ridz.



Starting off the blocks, Matt Ellis races for the finish line.

Adam Phillips puts everything he has into the javelin throw.

Aaron Kingman sprints as fast as he can to the finish line. Kingman qualified for the 100 this year.

Cooper Audette throws the javelin with all his might.

Every hurdler qualified for districts this year, and Matt Dumas improved on his time this year by nineteen seconds.

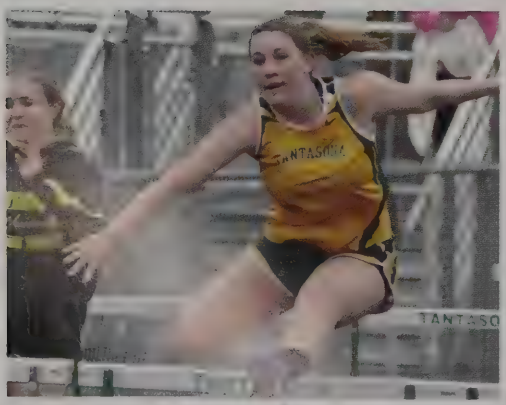
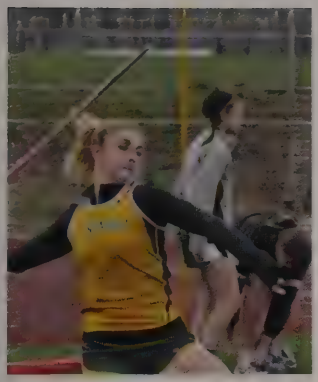
UNDEFEATED
GIRLS' TRACK EARNS VICTORIES

The girls' outdoor track team had an amazing season this year, as they emerged undefeated. "It was a lot different this year because we have a new coach and a lot of new kids, but it was fun," said sophomore Catherine Simonds. Despite the new coaches and players, the team ended up winning on all counts (with the exception of one tie). "Track was fun. Sometimes it was hard, but you make new friends," commented junior Josalin Beaulieu. Multiple members of the track team have said that one of the benefits of joining track is getting to be part of a big team, and getting to encourage one another at the meets. "Preparation for the meets is probably the most difficult," said Josalin. With over seven field events and multiple track events, practicing for meets requires vigorous training. It would be safe to say that all of the hard work and training paid off, as the girls' team finished their season undefeated.

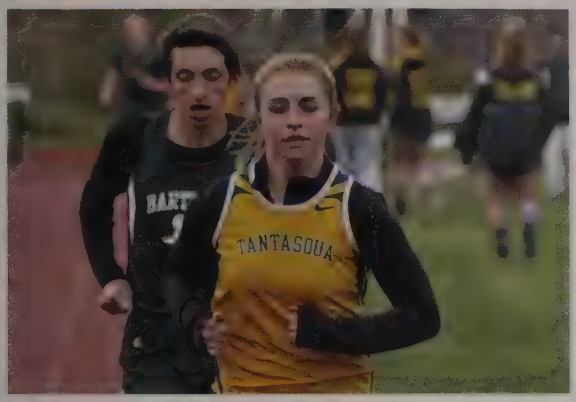


Leann Kievra takes on the hurdles at one of the track meets.

Emily Kievra also tackles the hurdles, putting them in the lead.



Megan DeMorris prepares for the mighty javelin throw. Later, she runs an 800m event. It's all in a day's work for track athlete!



The high jump is a unique challenge for track and field athletes. They have to defy gravity and clear the bar without touching it.

Emma Boland looks confident as she pulls back for the javelin throw.

SPEED AND LIFTOFF

Track and field is a unique sport because it involves so many events that require upper and lower body strength, bursts of speed and lots of endurance, long events and short events.

Whether trying to achieve greater distance in the long jump or greater speed in a 100m, track athletes must train hard for all events.

Joseph Dick

Joseph we are not only proud of you for what you have accomplished during your years at Tantasqua but for the young man you have become. You have had some obstacles along the way but you have rose over them and have become one of the nicest and most caring young man I know. I am very proud to call you my grandson.You will go on to do great things in your life. As you move on always know you are loved very much by us all and we'll be here for you as you journey into your next adventure that life has to offer you. Shoot for the stars. You will succeed at what ever you set your mind to doing. Congratulations and Love from us all. Love Nana, Papa , Dad, Emilie, Uncle Andrew, Grandma and Grandpa, Yolanda, Ken, Zoey, Auntie Chris and Bob, Uncle Forest and cousin Patrick and family, Uncle David, Zakary, Zabrina and David. Snicker's may not be with you physically but he will always be in your heart. He loved you very much. Love you Joe.

MICHAEL

Congratulations Michael!

We are so proud of you!
Always remember that you are
BRAVER than you believe,
STRONGER than you seem,
SMARTER than you think,
& LOVED more than you know!

We wish you a lifetime of sucess and happiness in a world of possibiities!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Sarah Laflamme

This is the beginning of anything you want.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2016!

Sturbridge Gas and Auto Repair, Family Owned, Family Oriented.

Main Street Auto Repair, located behind Sturbridge Gas, is a professional full-line automobile maintenance and auto repair shop. Servicing all makes and models, we provide general auto repair services as well. Main Street Auto Repair is continuously building it's reputation by carving a niche in our field. We accomplish this by combining training, equipment, expertise and specialization of customer service. Our mechanics are ASE certified. As a family owned business, professionalism and assistance is our priority. We also provide state inspections.

Sturbridge Gas is located on Main St in Sturbridge. Aside from providing multiple gas pumps, we are also a convenience store. Stop in for auto supplies, snacks, drinks, coffee, magazines, even beer and wine. We also have Mass lottery available and Amerigas propane cylinder exchanges.

If you have any questions, feel free to call us. Thank you for making Main Street Auto repair and Sturbridge Gas your one-stop gas station and auto repair shop.
